Battleships Risked by Japanese in Desperate Fight for Guadalcanal

Enemy Bombers Strike at Airfield as Great Battle Rages On—Three Japanese Transports Beached and Burned—U.S. Army Troops Sent to Reinforce Marines in Land Fighting

Many Enemy Planes Down

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (CP).—Japanese bombers have struck anew at the Guadalcanal airfield held by United States forces in the Solomon Islands, the navy announced today, as a great struggle for domination of much of the Southwest Pacific Ocean raged on.

The latest air attack was disclosed in a communique which added but a few details to what had already been told of the crucial aero-amphibious conflict in a communique earlier in the day.

It was stated that enemy naval forces were still operating, at last reports, in the vicinity of Savo Island, which guards the approaches to the Japanese-held northern section of Guadalcanal. There was no mention of any action involving either American air or surface forces.

The Japanese armada had been disclosed earlier to include battleships. This was the first time the enemy has risked his capital vessels in the vicinity of Guadalcanal, and the fact emphasized his grim determination to regain control of the island and smash the American offensive in the Southwest Pacific at virtually any cost.

STILL IN BALANCE

While the outcome of the struggle still hung in the balance, the navy added these details of information in tonight's communique:

"Twenty-seven enemy bombers blasted the Guadalcanal airfield shortly after noon on October 15, Guadalcanal time. Results of this raid were not announced.

Cruiser Is Put Out of Action By Air Attack

Allied Troops Still Fighting Japanese in Owen Stanley Mountains

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 16 (Friday) (AP).—Allied airmen supporting their comrades fighting the Japanese in the lower Solomons bombed and "evidently seriously damaged" an enemy light cruiser yesterday near Faisi in the upper area of the island chain, a communique said today.

The cruiser, attacked from a low altitude with 500-pound bombs, "lost speed, turned and came to a dead stop, evidently seriously damaged," Allied headquarters announced.

Faisi is a tiny island off the southern tip of Bougainville Island, one of the multiple Japanese bases the enemy is using in an effort to dislodge the United States marines from Guadalcanal, approximately 325 miles to the southeast.

ON MOUNTAIN SLOPES

Meanwhile, Allied ground troops still were fighting the Japanese on the northern slopes of the Owen Stanley Mountains at a point some twelve miles north of Kokoda, midway between Port Moresby and the Japanese base of Buna on the Papuan coast.

SWISS TO ACT ON FETTERING

Red Cross Fears Prisoner Dispute May Endanger Its Work

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP).—The Foreign Office announced tonight that the International Red Cross has approached both Britain and Germany with an offer to mediate the dispute over the chaining of prisoners.

The Foreign Office expressed "appreciation of this offer," but said that since Britain already had invited Switzerland, the protecting power of the Geneva Convention which governs the treatment of war captives, the Government is leaving it up to the Red Cross to decide in what way its services can be most effective.

The Red Cross, the statement said, pointed out that the chaining of prisoners as reprisal violated Article 2 of the Geneva Convention and expressed concern that such measures might endanger Red Cross work on behalf of prisoners.

SWISS GOVERNMENT ACTS

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP).—The External Affairs Department announced tonight that the Swiss Government, the protecting power for both Britain and Canada in Germany, has "made an approach to the German Government" in connection with the dispute over chaining of prisoners of war.

Toronto Has $100,000 Fire

TORONTO, Oct. 15 (CP).—Fire tonight destroyed warehouses and oil storage tanks at the plant of the Barrett Roofing & Materials Company, Limited, in the waterfront district here, causing damage estimated at $100,000.

Three explosions followed the fire, said to have been started by a spark from a machine in the mixing room. Approximately 100,000 gallons of oil were destroyed in the two-alarm blaze.

When the huge oil drums caught fire, flames flared hundreds of feet in the air, sending a bright reflection over the waterfront district. The flames were followed by dense clouds of black smoke which covered the area south of King Street.

One Bomber Lost Raiding French Ports

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP).—Boston bombers dropped explosives on the quayside and docks in a heavy double raid on Le Havre, vital French Channel port today, as the R.A.F. kept up its daylight offensive against the Germans.

The first attack met with no interference from the German Air Force, British air headquarters said, but Spitfires which protected the bombers of the second formation were challenged and one of the bombers was lost.

Mustang fighting planes, one of the greatest products of American factories, also carried out daylight raids on railway facilities in Holland yesterday, it was announced today.

All the Mustangs came back from the attack. There was no immediate indication that Canadian aircraft were involved in either action.

Rationing to Be Extended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP).—More commodities will be rationed in the United States almost as quickly as local ration boards can take on the work, Office of Price Administration officials said tonight.

Nine rationing programmes already are in effect—sugar, gasoline, fuel oil, typewriters, automobiles, tires, bicycles and rubber work shoes—but worsening scarcities will make it necessary to add additional ration programmes almost as rapidly as local boards can absorb them, the officials stated.

Guerrilla Force of Croatians Wipes Out Italian Troops

Captures Towns in Sharp Fighting—Kills 170 German Soldiers When Oil Fields Raided

LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP).—Embittered and disillusioned Croat peasant followers of Dr. Vladimir Macek were reported tonight waging a new and independent guerrilla war against occupation forces and the brown-shirted Ustachi storm troopers of the Italian puppet, Ante Pavelic.

In sharp fighting, official Moscow broadcasts said, the new guerrilla force captured the towns of Jajce in the Pliva Valley, thirty miles northwest of Sarajevo; Jastrebarsko, fifteen miles southwest of the Croat capital of Zagreb, and Ko Tanjevac, twenty-five miles southwest of Zagreb.

Two companies of Italians were declared to have been wiped out in the battles in the Pliva and Sava Valleys between Zagreb and Sarajevo, while another guerrilla detachment was reported to have raided the Kutin oil fields, where 170 German soldiers were killed and nine oil wells dynamited.

OPERATE INDEPENDENTLY

The outbreak of the new guerrilla war in Croatia was reported in Berne last night by Yugoslav sources who said a force of 4,000 peasant soldiers is operating independently of the regulars and guerrillas under Gen. Draja Mihailovic, who have been fighting in the mountains since their country was overrun by the German war machine in April, 1941, and then parceled out among Italians, Germans, Hungarians and Bulgarians to administer.

The new developments were confirmed by Yugoslav sources here, who said "unrest is greater in Yugoslavia than at any time since outbreak of the war."

Airmen Dress Lightly in Middle East

British Bring Down Eleven Axis Planes In Day Over Malta

Total Bag Since Sunday Reaches Ninety-Four as Air Siege Intensified—Heavy U.S. Bombers Raid Tobruk, Scoring Direct Hit on Merchant Ship and Destroying Nearby Lighter

CAIRO, Oct. 15 (AP).—Axis air losses over Malta increased to ninety-four since Sunday with the destruction of eleven more enemy craft over the rocky island fortress today, as the Germans and Italians strove mightily to reinforce and supply their stalled army in Egypt.

Night results added two unspecified aircraft to the three bombers and eight fighters shot down before nightfall.

Three of the craft destroyed today went before the guns of P.O. George Beurling, of Verdun, Que., the Canadian ace who knocked down Malta's 1,000th victim three days ago. Beurling now has accounted for twenty-nine of the enemy.

TWO MESSERSCHMITTS

Beurling destroyed two Messerschmitt 109's and a Junkers 88 before being forced to bail out of his bullet-riddled fighter, the Air Ministry's news service said.

He got wet as he fell into the sea, it added, but he was picked up soon little the worse for wear.

Malta has undergone more than 3,000 air raids since Italy entered the war, and has accounted for more than 1,000 planes.

The intensified air siege was in its fifth day after the R.A.F. had shot down twenty-three Axis planes.

BULLETINS

BISHOP EXECUTED

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 16 (Friday) (AP).—The Netherlands Indies Information Service said today that Japanese troops had executed seventy-year-old Bishop Aerts and seven other members of a Roman Catholic mission in the Kai Islands in the Arafura Sea, north of Australia. The service said its report was based on eyewitness accounts of the Japanese action last July 13 at Langgoer, where the aged bishop, who had spent most of his life among the natives, and the other victims, were herded onto a jetty and shot down.

RHINELAND ATTACKED

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Oct. 16 (Friday) (AP).—British bombers attacked the Rhineland last night, D.N.B. said today. At least twenty-one bombers were brought down, the news agency added. It said bombs fell on widely scattered localities.

AGAINST CO-OPERATION WITH AXIS

LONDON, Oct. 16 (Friday) (CP).—The Daily Mail in a Madrid dispatch said today that reports from Vichy received in the Spanish capital declared Gen. Maxime Weygand and Gen. Henri Giraud had called on Marshal Petain to protest against Paris press agitation for acceptance of German military aid against a purportedly impending Allied attack on North Africa. Weygand, commander of French forces in North Africa, and Giraud, a former German captive who escaped from his prison quarters and returned to unoccupied France, were reported to have told the marshal that the French army in Africa would not stand for such "co-operation."

FAMOUS VESSEL RECHRISTENED

"Unfortunate" Name of Holder of Pacific Records Has Been Changed

MONTREAL, Oct. 15 (CP).—The Empress of Japan, Canadian Pacific liner of the White Empress fleet, which has been under charter to the British Admiralty since the outbreak of war, has been rechristened the Empress of Scotland to rid "so fine a ship of so unfortunate a name," it was announced tonight by D. C. Coleman, chairman of Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited.

The Empress of Scotland holds all speed records for Pacific crossings, the announcement said, and has been transporting troops "to all parts of the globe" since the war started. She has been under bombing attack and the ship's Chinese quartermaster received the British Empire Medal for his conduct during the attack.

The last Canadian Pacific steamship to bear the name Empress of Scotland was destroyed by fire shortly after her sale ten years ago. Originally the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, the German-built vessel was turned over to the company in reparations following the first Great War.

Making Check Of Travel by Rail and Bus

MONTREAL, Oct. 15 (CP).—Transport Controller T. C. Lockwood said tonight that a three-day census of rail and bus travel in Canada would start tomorrow. The census will cover both civilian and servicemen travel.

Mr. Lockwood refused to comment on the reason for the census except to say that "it has nothing to do with travel rationing." He said he did not think there was any immediate prospect of such rationing.

Bishop Condemns Laval Measures

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (CP).—The Bishop of Montauban in France has issued a pastoral letter in which he condemns the anti-Semitic measures of the Laval Government as "a contempt of human dignity, a violation of the most sacred rights of man and of the family," the B.B.C. reported today in a broadcast directed to German Catholics. The broadcast was picked up here by CBS.

River of Freedom

HIGH in the hills it is the little waters that determine the size of a river at its mouth. Today on the Hills of Freedom human wills are combining to form a mighty torrent that shall sweep on to victory, overcoming tyranny, freeing the oppressed and restoring civilization to the world. Canada has a part in that.

Canada's Third Victory Loan is a tributary to that great River of Freedom. Its purpose is to raise $750,000,000, needed in addition to taxation to cover the cost of the nation's war effort this year. It will make ships, planes, tanks and guns—the tools with which men fight our battle—so that on the last field victory shall be ours. Its only source is with the people of this land, and all of them. Swell the River of Freedom. Send it crashing full-flood against our foes.

Nazis Lose 1,500 Men And Forty-Five Tanks In Advancing Slightly

Two Infantry Divisions Supported by 100 Tanks And Huge Air Formations, Push Ahead—Soviets Fight Off Three Attacks in Mozdok Area, Disabling Nineteen Machines

Destroy Munition Dumps

MOSCOW, Oct. 16 (Friday) (AP).—The Germans, in a new offensive spurt, hurled two infantry divisions supported by 100 tanks and huge air formations against Northwestern Stalingrad on Thursday, and "succeeded in slightly pressing back our troops," the Russians announced early today on the fifty-third day of siege.

This German gain, made in a race with approaching Winter, cost the enemy 1,500 dead and about forty-five of their tanks, the Thursday midnight communique said.

South of the besieged Volga River city the Russians said another 300 Germans were slain and five guns and six blockhouses and two munition dumps were destroyed by one Red Army unit. The Nazi blockhouse garrisons either were killed or captured, the communique added.

INDECISIVE FIGHTING

North of the city where the Red Army has driven wedges into the Nazi flank extending from the Don River to Stalingrad, the communique reported only indecisive fighting of local importance.

In the mid-Caucasian area of Mozdok the Soviet bulletin said the Red Army fought off three successive Nazi attacks, burning or disabling nineteen German tanks and killing approximately two companies of enemy infantry.

The Russians in this area also were reported to have broken into a series of Nazi trenches where several scores of Germans were killed.

"Our troops," the communique said, "fought for the annihilation of enemy groups of tanks and infantry which had driven a wedge into our defences." This wedge apparently was the same one reported in yesterday's communique.

TWO ATTACKS REPULSED

Fighting also flared on the Bryansk front, about 210 miles southwest of Moscow. Two German attacks were reported to have been repulsed, and 300 Germans killed.

The fresh German attempt to reduce battered Stalingrad occurred as freezing cold, already gripping

Soviets Asking Hess Be Given Trial at Once

Moscow Suggests Departure From British and United States Plans

MOSCOW, Oct. 15 (AP).—The Soviet Government came out bluntly today for immediate trial and punishment "with all the severity of criminal law" of any German ringleader already imprisoned by the Allies, and specifically named Rudolf Hess, a captive in Britain, as one of the "organizers of German atrocities," who should pay now for his misdeeds.

The announcement was made in the form of a communique widely circulated by Tass News Agency, containing the reply of Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov to a ten-month-old communication from a number of European Governments.

It suggested sharp departure from the plans of the British and United States Governments for postwar trial of Axis criminals.

OFFICIALS STARTLED

British official circles were startled by this entirely new conception of international retribution. In London there were expressions of fear that action along the line suggested by Russia would bring wholesale retaliation against Allied nationals now in German hands. Already the Germans have initiated the mass shackling of Canadian and British prisoners of war.

A Foreign Office press attache, while saying that "Hess, of course," is considered vulnerable to Allied plans for indictment of war criminals, remarked pointedly that the former deputy fuehrer made his parachute descent in Scotland on May 10, 1941, more than a month before Germany attacked Russia.

Man Is Shot On Crowded Dance Floor

HULL, Que., Oct. 15 (CP).—While crowds filled the dance floor of the Avalon Hotel on the outskirts of Hull, a Montreal policeman tonight shot and critically injured a man sought for questioning in connection with robbery of a Montreal theatre.

The man, Patrick McEwen, twenty-two, of Montreal, was rushed to hospital with a bullet in one lung.

John Cripton and Helen Atkinson, of Montreal, were held for questioning in connection with the robbery.

Detective-Sergeant J. Bedard, of Montreal, shot McEwen. He was one of two Montreal policemen who have been in Ottawa and district for several days seeking clues in connection with the robbery of the Orpheum Theatre in Montreal last week, in which $1,000 was taken.

VICTORY SHIP LAUNCHED

MONTREAL, Oct. 15 (CP).—The Ste. Foy Longueuil, a 10,000-ton Victory ship, was launched at the United Shipyards, Limited, plant here today. J. B. Menzies, manager of United Shipyards, said the Fort Longueuil was completed in a little more than four months. Several sister ships are on the ways, one of which is expected to be launched about November 15.

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1942, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, Oct. 15 (By Cable).—It would be fatal to assume, says The Times editorially today, that Germany on the defensive will be any less formidable than Germany in the onrush of attack. The Nazis will not be defeated by anything but immense force delivered at the right place. The present moment for the Allies is full of promise; it is also full of danger, for if they do not win the war outright, they will lose it altogether. To leave Hitler in possession of the Continent or leave Germany any of her conquests would be equivalent to losing it. On plans prepared by the Allies depend the length of the war and the character of the peace that will follow it.

* * *

Two strategical bases are all important at this juncture, says The Times, one the fortress of Britain, the other the great land mass of Africa. Extention of the Allies' grip not only upon the Mediterranean shore, but upon the whole African continent will be a potent force when the United Nations begin to close in upon defensive Germany. General Smuts fully understands this. The time approaches for garrisons both in Britain and Africa to carry the war into the heart of hostile lands.

* * *

Fighting around Stalingrad has died down to minor engagements and the Red Army is preparing a new offensive to the southward. The Nazis say men and equipment continually cross the Volga as if the Russians were preparing a big offensive movement. From Moscow, the correspondent of The Times reports relieving forces on the northwest of Stalingrad are now within sight of the city. On the Black Sea coast the German advance has been stopped and the enemy is concentrating on bombing the Grozny oil

Airmen Spot Dummy Forts

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP).—The Moscow radio said tonight that the Germans had erected a number of dummy fortifications in an attempt to head off the Russian counter-offensive northwest of Stalingrad.

The report said Soviet troops "again had made some headway, inflicting considerable casualties on the enemy."

The dummy fortifications were disclosed by aerial reconnaissance, the report added.

FLOODS CAUSE GREAT DAMAGE

Devastation Wrought in Virginia—Hundreds Forced From Their Homes

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 15 (AP).—Floods in main rivers east and west of the Blue Ridge drove hundreds of Virginians from their homes today, honeycombed the mid-state road system with water blocks and wrought devastation in the Shenandoah Valley equal to or greater than that done by floods in 1936.

Some 300 residents of low-lying areas around Front Royal were brought into a school gymnasium there and 200 residents of Criglersville in Madison County in Northern Virginia were forced to higher ground by the Rapidan River.

Rising waters of the Shenandoah and Rappahannock Rivers and their tributaries plunged Harrisonburg into darkness, isolated Fredricksburg and all main roads and halted traffic on Virginia's principal north-south highways. Gasoline storage tanks on the Rappahannock at Fredericksburg were flooded and a broadcast authorized by the army warned residents for a 100 miles downstream of danger of fire.

SWEEP OVER FARMS

Poultry and livestock were drowned in the Shenandoah's sweep across rich Shenandoah County farmlands, but no loss of human life had been reported early tonight.

A Virginia public service power station at Edinburg, which served a number of Northern Virginia towns and farm homes, was flooded and ceased operation. Power failure at Harrisonburg prevented The Daily News-Record from publishing its Friday morning edition.

Nanaimo Girl Killed by Car

NANAIMO, Oct. 15.—Five-year-old Dawn Marlen Thow, daughter of Sergeant-Major and Mrs. E. Thow, was killed almost instantly this afternoon when struck by a car driven by Charles Wilson, local contractor, according to reports submitted to police. The accident occurred at the corner of Milton and Nicol Streets as the child ran out from the sidewalk in an attempt to cross the street.

Sergeant-Major Thow, the father, is stationed at Montreal.

Merchant Ship Sunk by Axis U-Boat Far Up St. Lawrence

Twelve Men Missing as Enemy Claims Tenth Victim in River—Attacker Believed Destroyed

METIS BEACH, Que., Oct. 15 (CP).—Axis U-boats operating in the St. Lawrence River last Thursday claimed their tenth victim when they torpedoed and sank a westbound merchant ship off Metis Beach.

It was the first sinking this far up river and occurred near the south shore, midway between Quebec City and the mouth of the stream.

Most previous U-boat attacks, which have resulted in the sinking of nine ships and the damaging of another, occurred farther down stream in the vicinity of Cap Chat.

TWELVE MEN MISSING

Twelve members of the crew of the 4,000-ton merchant ship which was sunk while in convoy, are missing. Eighteen others were picked up by Canadian naval escort vessels which attempted to contact and sink the underwater attacker.

Disclosure of the sinking, made at Ottawa today by Navy Minister Macdonald, was withheld for naval security reasons.

Although Mr. Macdonald said in his statement that the U-boat "was not seen," the quartermaster of the sunken merchant ship said at an Eastern Canadian port that he was "sure one of the Canadian escorts got the U-boat." His shipmates agreed with his statement.

Residents of this little resort town were startled by the torpedoing. Octave Gendron, a lighthouse keeper who lives with his family on a point jutting out into the river, said he thought his lighthouse was being attacked when he heard the torpedo explosion and the sound of star shells being fired by the naval escort vessels.

Airman's Alert Mind Leads Plane to Haven

Fighter Pilot Improvises Air Sign Language to Direct Crippled Bomber to Landing Field, Saving Men and $250,000 Craft

WITH THE BOMBER COMMAND, UNITED STATES ARMY AIR FORCES, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 15 (AP).—Nine American Flying Fortress crewmen are alive and the $250,000 plane will fly against Hitler again because, in one split second, an alert British Spitfire pilot improvised an air sign language.

But for Flt.-Lt. A. J. Andrews, fighter pilot of the R.A.F., the flying fortress would have crashed in the rough English Channel and the crew might not have been here today to tell the story.

Lieut. James Stewart was piloting his fortress in the big raid against Lille last Friday when he was jumped by swarms of German fighters. They knocked two motors out, smashed the radio apparatus, riddled the lift raft and drilled shell holes in the rudder.

The fortress finally shook them off but lost height rapidly over the Channel until, approaching England's hills, it had dropped to about 1,500 feet.

THIRD MOTOR COUGHING

The third motor was beginning to cough.

"I knew it was only a question of several hundred yards before I would have to make a crash landing and with hills in front of me it looked as if the best chance was to land in the Channel," said Stewart.

"I was picking out a soft spot in the water which was very rough."

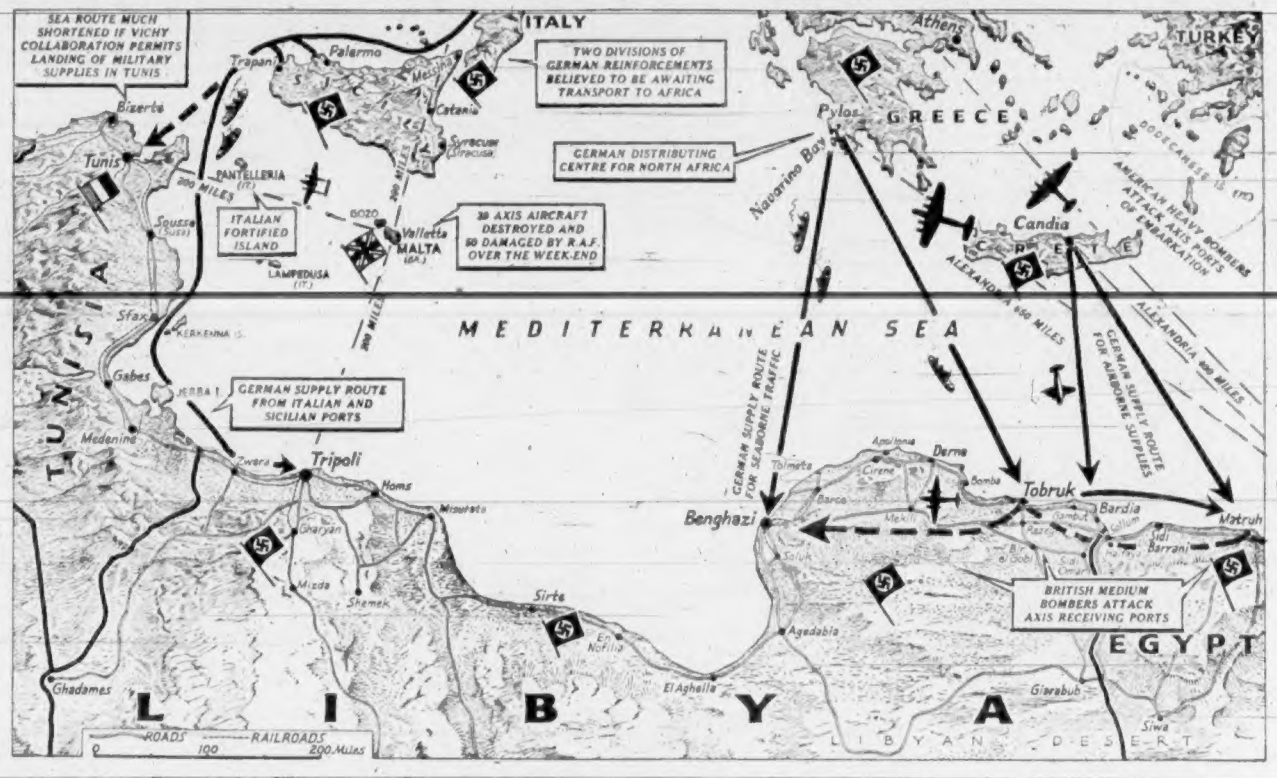
At this critical moment Andrew appeared and instantly sized up the situation. He could not communicate by radio so he jumped in front of the fortress, waggled his wings violently and headed directly for shore.

TOOK CHANCE

"I knew he wanted me to follow him so I took a chance," Stewart continued.

The Spitfire sped straight over a low hill, he said, and "just as he reached the crest of the hill he waggled his wings again and dropped his landing gear to show me there was a field below."

The struggling bomber just cleared the hill and rolled on to a runway directly in front on a field of which its crew had not known. The crew agreed that their plane probably could not have flown another 100 yards.



THE WAR TODAY

By JOHN COLLINGWOOD READE

Germans Show Hatred of Commando Forays

Why did the Germans raise the controversy over the shackling of prisoners and deliberately provoke reprisals by violating The Hague conventions? Speculation on the subject has ranged from attributing it to a sheer delight in savagery, made apparently safe by the possession of more prisoners, to Mr. Churchill's suggestion that they wanted to drag a new subject into the arena of public controversy and draw world attention away from their failure at Stalingrad.

But the Germans themselves have let the cat out of the bag in a radio broadcast. They may not have done so consciously, but out it came nevertheless. They said "The German High Command does not carry out barbarous Red Indian raids" on British territory, and therefore has no alternative but to take effective measures to lead the British back to "a decent mode of warfare."

A large proportion of the German prisoners recently taken have been captured by the Commandos, and they have been taken from every section of the occupied coast from Norway to St. Nazaire. These raids are becoming more frequent and much more efficient. Virtually no publicity is given to them, except for those which the Germans admit and publicize and those which involve some spectacular operation which can hardly be concealed, such as blowing up the lock gates at St. Nazaire.

COMMANDOS EFFICIENT

Nevertheless, we have the assurance of the combined operations headquarters that Commando raids have been more frequent and more successful than generally supposed. These raids can be used for a variety of purposes. They explore German military dispositions, examine German defence works, check on German units assigned to coastal defence, and provide cover for the landing and withdrawal of trained saboteurs, political agents and intelligence representatives of the European Governments in exile.

Without doubt, gun-running is being done on a large scale. There is nothing secret about the fact that weapons and munitions stores are accumulating in the occupied territories. The Germans themselves have published the fact that they have occasionally uncovered quite substantial stores. The traffic in passengers can be measured by the number of Frenchmen, Belgians, Hollanders and Norwegians that are turning up in Britain, and it can be assumed that the traffic also goes the other way.

With the growth of specially-trained forces under command of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, these raids can be made almost continuous, and the work of organizing and arming the civilian population greatly accelerated. Moreover, the American Rangers are now being added to the special raiding forces now available, and the time will come when the Commando, working with the paratrooper and the airborne infantry, will be able to spike the enemy's defences on a considerable stretch of coast and prepare the way, with the help of civilian saboteurs and guerrilla forces, for the landing of regular infantry and armoured troops.

The importance of the Commando raid has not, perhaps, received sufficient recognition, because its purposes are limited and the raids themselves are conducted on a small scale and without benefit of press correspondents and publicity agents. Nevertheless, the work of the Commandos is important in the present, and, because of the large number of men who are being trained through actual experience in the art of assaulting hostile positions across water, will become vital when the zero hour shall strike.

MALTA AGAIN TARGET

The sudden outburst of Axis air activity over Malta is a harbinger of forthcoming land action on the Egyptian desert. Malta is the remote and isolated offensive base from which British air forces reconnoitre and attack Axis shipping and air transport from Sicily to the African primary base at Tripoli. Whenever the Axis plans to drive through a large convoy of troops and supplies, it is first necessary to bomb and machine-gun the British airfields on Malta, and ground both fighters and bombers.

It is not known whether medium bombers have returned to Malta, but Hurricane fighter bombers are almost certainly based there in fair numbers.

As for fighters, the Axis has reason to know that there is a nest of that most formidable fighter, the Spitfire, established on Malta. Thirty-nine Axis raiders were shot down over the week-end and more than fifty damaged, many of which were unlikely to have reached their bases. The British lost five machines.

DAMAGE NEGLIGIBLE

The damage inflicted on Malta was negligible and the great bulk of the attacking force never reached the island during Monday's operation. Since the Axis must be aware of the force protecting Malta, and yet dispatched a very large force to attack it, there must have been urgent reasons for so doing.

Attacks on Malta are made for more than one reason. The most obvious purpose is to screen the movement of a large convoy through the Strait of Gibraltar to run the gauntlet of the Western Mediterranean and bring speedy assistance both to Malta and the Army of the Nile. Usually, however, the approach of a British convoy has been reported from Spain by Axis news services, which improve the occasion by gloating over imaginary shipping losses alleged to have been inflicted on it.

There has been no word of a sea and air battle in the Western Mediterranean, and rumors that strong reinforcements for Rommel have been concentrated in Sicily and are awaiting transportation to Africa are probably true. In which case, further attacks on Malta can be expected unless the high percentage of losses suffered over the week-end discourages the enemy and causes him to decide in favor of running his ships through without further warning or preparation.

ROMMEL'S PROBLEM ACUTE

The accompanying map shows the vital area of the Eastern Mediterranean and the supply system by which the Afrika Korps is maintained. Allied offensive action at the moment is directed entirely against Axis supply routes, while British and American supplies are moving in without much interference. As indicated on the map, German points of departure from Greece and Crete are kept under bombardment by four-motored heavy bombers of the United States Army Air Corps, while the receiving ports and airdromes on the Libyan and Egyptian shores are harassed and pommeled by British medium bombers and fighter aircraft.

Axis supplies reaching North Africa from Italy and Sicily come within range of attack from British aircraft and submarines based on Malta. Since the reinforcement of Malta and the transfer of much air strength to the Middle East from Britain and the United States, Rommel's supply problem is beginning to become acute, and therein lies our best hope of beating him.

A.R.P. SERVICE HERE EXAMINED

Representatives of Dominion Director Visit City and Municipalities

An extensive inspection of A.R.P. casualty and fire services in Victoria and the three neighboring municipalities was made yesterday by Dr. George Howlett, Ottawa, of the Department of Pensions and National Health, and William J. Scott, K.C., Ontario fire marshal.

The two men, acting under the direction of Dr. R. J. Manion, Dominion A.R.P. director, are on a tour of vulnerable areas in Canada, and yesterday stated they were favorably impressed by what they had seen in Greater Victoria.

After having been met in the morning by Alderman W. L. Morgan, Inspector A. H. Bishop, civilian protection officer; Fire Chief Alex Munroe and Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, of the Provincial A.R.P., Dr. Howlett began a tour of casualty service facilities, while Mr. Scott examined fire precautions taken here.

VISIT HOSPITALS

Dr. Howlett visited the first-aid post in Victoria West, A.R.P. sections at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, Quadra Street School, and, in the company of Inspector Bishop and Lieut.-Gen. E. C. Ashton, examined first-aid points in District 11.

Mr. Scott was shown the A.R.P. central control room, and auxiliary fire-fighting equipment. He then met with Mayor Andrew McGavin and fire wardens, and was a guest of the fire wardens at luncheon in the Union Club. Dr. Howlett was also entertained at the club by Dr. E. W. Boak, president of the Victoria Medical Society.

During the afternoon, in the company of A.R.P. controllers, the visitors toured the three municipalities, where they were shown A.R.P. preparations made there.

The two men will leave for Duncan today, and from there will visit Nanaimo. On Saturday they will arrive in Vancouver, and will leave for the East Tuesday night.

GERMANS LOSE MEN AND TANKS

For several days there had been only sporadic fighting in the rubble-strewn streets of the workers' settlement on the northwestern fringe of the city. This absence of Nazi activity had caused much speculation.

Military observers said they believed German activities had been halted before their objectives were reached because of the urgent necessity of re-equipping forces for the Winter and because the resolute Russian defences had worn out many Nazi units. A year ago the Germans were caught unprepared at the start of Winter and suffered a series of disastrous reverses.

A southbound Norfolk and western freight train was derailed at Compton in Page County and the engine and twenty-two coal hoppers were piled up in a cut by a slide. Two trainmen received minor injuries.

The Shenandoah already had risen twenty-four feet and was climbing a foot an hour at Front Royal today, with the peak expected to touch forty feet or four feet higher than the flood of 1936.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 15 (AP).—Property damage mounted steadily tonight in Cumberland and adjacent areas in four states as flood waters from steadily rising streams threatened to reach higher marks than in the previous record inundations of 1936.

First floors of business houses and other buildings in downtown Cumberland were flooded and muddy torrents coursed through the streets. No estimate of the damage was possible tonight.

Scarred Veterans of Dieppe Home in Glory

Montrealers, 6,000 Strong, Cheer Twenty-Nine of Raid Heroes—Officials Attend Public Reception

MONTREAL, Oct. 15 (CP).—Air Minister Power addressing Dieppe heroes before 6,000 persons at an open air public reception in Lafontaine Park here tonight told them their exploits had become an inspiration to the war effort, and he charged them "to remind the men of this country that their first and prime duty is to serve in the armed services if they are physically fit to do so."

Under the glare of klieg lights, the row of twenty-one scarred and beribboned veterans of the Canadian raid nervously puffed at cigarettes, crossed and recrossed their legs, and modestly averted their eyes when the throngs offered lusty cheers.

After a busy round of engagements following their arrival here this morning from a United States port, they were borne through streets lined with applauding spectators in a military parade that included units from the three services.

Some of them gave impromptu speeches and were loudly cheered. The speakers, besides Major Power, included Justice Minister St. Laurent, Premier Godbout, Brig.-Gen. E. de B. Panet, officer commanding Military District No. 4; Lt.-Col. Dollard Menard, D.S.O., officer commanding Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal at Dieppe, and Maj. Joseph Armand Sabourin, padre of Les Fusiliers.

Major Power read a telegram from Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in which he said that the Dieppe heroes "speak to us not only of others who, like themselves fought and happily were spared to return, but of those who, before being forced to surrender, fought to the extent of their endurance. They speak to us above all of those who amid the scenes of conflict gave life itself to the cause for which they went to fight.

"By the gallantry, devotion and sacrifice of Canada's men at Dieppe, far-reaching service has been rendered all the United Nations and an imperishable page has been added to our country's history."

MUST HELP WAR

Mr. St. Laurent said that "every Canadian should do everything he can to help our war effort. The efforts of each of us counts in the effort of the whole country. And should we not fear the outcome of the common effort if in examining our consciences we find that we are not ready to do our part?"

Premier Godbout said that at Dieppe men "from all provinces in the Dominion, men of all languages, men of all religions united in a common effort for the defence of our country."

"Although our English and French ancestors fought for the possession of this country, Dieppe reminded us that it is our duty to join hands and try to to build a greater and better Canada in common effort."

Colonel Menard told the gathering that the "men who returned from the hell of Dieppe would go back tomorrow. They know now that the Hun can be beaten and will be beaten when we come to grips again. To all young Canadians in training let me herald the courage of the men of Dieppe as their goal. To those who fell let us pay homage and resolve that we shall avenge them."

MEN WERE INSPIRED

The men who fought at Dieppe, Major Sabourin said, "were inspired with the ideal that they were going to fight for their homes, for their mothers, for their girl friends, for their wives and for their children. It was this conviction that gave them the courage and the heroism which they so brilliantly displayed."

The official party of seventeen Dieppe heroes arrived early in the morning and started a bustling round of engagements that included a mass press interview, a luncheon, a parade, speech-making and the public reception. At noon four more Dieppe men arrived on a troop train bearing 200 other servicemen, including medical category cases and officers and N.C.O.'s home for training and instruction.

In a parade through city streets they were distinguishable by their bandages. All had been wounded, some carried crutches, others had their arms in slings. Nine of them wore coveted military decorations, rewards for valor on the battlefield. Back in their hotel they had left their trophies—a German Mauser rifle and a steel helmet.

RAID WAS SUCCESS

The story they told newsmen, when pieced together, produced this commentary: The Dieppe objectives had been reached in most cases and the raid was a success; co-ordination between land, sea and air forces was nearly perfect; the surprise element was somewhat marred by the chance meeting of an enemy patrol with units approaching on the left flank of the town, but even at that German officers on the right flank were caught having their morning shave.

Their stories also told of the experimental landing of tanks which, they said, proved a successful venture, many of them patrolling the streets at random, shooting up pill boxes and machine-gun nests, and others, immobilized by enemy fire, acting as small independent fortresses to provide covering fire. They told of honorable treatment to Germans who gave up docilely when the fighting at close quarters started, and they reiterated that the raid landing would be permanent and expressed genuine envy of those who would get the opportunity to take part in it.

GUERRILLAS WIPE OUT ITALIANS

The revolt in the state which the Axis set up along the Nazi pattern as a solution of Balkan problems apparently had its roots in popular dissatisfaction with the rule of Pavelic, who escaped to Italy in 1934 after the assassination of King Alexander of the Yugoslavs.

DISMISSED POLICE CHIEF

In an effort to curb dissatisfaction and please Berlin, he was reported to have reorganized his Government and dismissed the chief of police.

Dr. Macek, veteran Croat peasant leader, was variously reported arrested, in house custody and in retirement on his farm near Zagreb. Dissatisfied with the part assigned to Croats in the Yugoslav state, Macek stood aloof from efforts to weld the nation into a solid fighting unit before his country was invaded, and many of his followers imagined that they would gain greater privileges from a break-up of the state.

Some observers guessed that the new state of affairs might be partly the result of undercover German provocation in an effort to unseat shadowy Italian authority in Croatia. Reports from Ankara yesterday said Germany was on the point of demanding full control of Croatia and Slovenia, as well as the Italian port of Trieste, in order to put down guerrillas with an iron hand.

EXPECTED MEETING

Some Allied Government sources said the new situation probably would be considered at a meeting between Hitler and Mussolini, which The Evening Standard reported would be held in the Brenner Pass within the next ten days.

Already Heinrich Himmler, German Gestapo chief, has visited Rome, Milan, Turin, Genoa and Naples. The Stanard said, to investigate the condition of Italian morale at the approach of another war Winter.

One result of the investigation, the newspaper said, was the dispatch of several hundred more Gestapo men to assist Italian police.

DITTY BAGS PRAYED FOR

Naval Officer Tells Ontario Gathering Men Prize Thoughtful Gifts

Lieut. C. Petersen, R.C.N.R., recently mentioned in dispatches for bravery in saving life at sea, was [illegible] he visited Brockville, Ont., for the purpose of thanking the citizens of that city in person for their many gifts to his ship.

Lieut. Petersen was greeted with great enthusiasm while visiting Brockville and entertained considerably not only by civilians but also by the acting commandant of the Officers' Training Centre there—Lieut.-Col. Blairr, M.C.

Thanking the people of Brockville for the many gifts to his ship, Lieut. Petersen told them the life at sea for a sailor was not always an easy one. At times, even for two weeks or longer, a sailor cannot indulge in a bath or change his clothes. At night there is no smoking or lights above decks, and all aboard must devote themselves to their duties and instruments. It is all grim work at sea. In port, however, things are different—the sailor can switch on radios and enjoy the many things so generously donated by the people of Brockville.

Answering a number of questioners during his talk, Lieut. Petersen said that "ditty bags" were not only most acceptable to navy men, but were actually "prayed for."

Lieut. Petersen, an Englishman by birth, belongs to a Danish seafaring family. At sea since he was sixteen years of age, although now only thirty-two, he has sailed to almost every part of the world. Three years ago he met and married a Victoria girl, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Frank, Uplands Road, and had decided to settle down in Victoria, but duty had other plans for him and since that time he has been continually on patrol duty.

PRESIDENT WILL ATTEND MEETING

Louis G. Howard to Visit Here on Tour of Canadian Army and Navy Veterans' Units

LOUIS G. HOWARD

Louis G. Howard, Winnipeg, Dominion president of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, will be guest of honor at the quarterly meeting of the provincial command of the organization, to be held here tomorrow. This will be Mr. Howard's first visit to the Pacific Coast, on a Canada-wide inspection tour.

Alderman Ernest Jameson, of Ladysmith, provincial president, will preside at the meeting, to be attended by about forty delegates representing all units of the association in British Columbia. Local delegates will be J. A. Anderson, W. Crowther, Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, and J. C. Rivers.

On the agenda are many resolutions in the interest of the veterans' movement, and of present-day servicemen who will eventually become veterans. Two other provincial quarterly meetings have been held this year, at Vancouver Centre and South Vancouver.

BRITISH DESTROY ELEVEN PLANES

during four enemy swoops on Malta Wednesday, losing only five Spitfires, from which three pilots were saved.

TOBRUK ATTACKED

Heavy United States bombers in daylight Wednesday again attacked Tobruk—chief Axis supply base and destination of Axis convoys. A large merchant ship was hit directly by two bombs and a nearby lighter was destroyed.

R.A.F. medium bombers also attacked Sahum near the Egyptian frontier, starting fires; attacked transport vehicles in the desert at Sidi Haneish, and machine-gunned objectives in the Daba area.

German reports that Marshal Erwin Rommel had returned to the front lines in Egypt in the Alamein sector, eighty miles west of Alexandria, were seen as connected with the intensification of Axis efforts to build up his striking force.

BATTLEFRONT QUIET

The battlefront remained quiet while the quartermasters of both sides feverishly built their armies for what is expected to be the most withering campaign of the desert.

In addition to the twenty-three planes destroyed over Malta yesterday, the R.A.F. said thirty-six others were damaged and ten of the cripples had little chance of reaching base. In the bag were twelve Junkers 88's, nine Messerschmitt 109's, a Macchi 202 and an RE 2001.

Maltese air fields were the chief Axis targets. The Axis used only a small proportion of bombers in the attacking forces, presumably as a bait to lure Malta's Spitfires into dogfights.

JAPANESE RISK BIG BATTLESHIPS

"On the night of October 14-15, American positions on Espiritu Santo Island, site of an air base in the New Hebrides, were shelled by an enemy ship believed to be a submarine. Espiritu Santo is 450 miles southeast of Guadalcanal, and the action had the appearance of a diversionary move by the Japanese.

"Three enemy transports, which the navy previously had reported bombed by United States planes on the morning of October 15, were observed beached and burning. Meanwhile, the enemy surface forces, including two transports, were "still in the vicinity of Savo Island."

Those were the facts added by tonight's communique, which said in addition only that "no report pertaining to the land fighting in Guadalcanal has been received."

ARMY TROOPS HELP

The earlier communique, however, had said that United States Army troops now are fighting with the marines, who originally invaded the island and captured its airfield from the Japanese last August.

The fight for possession of Guadalcanal, on which the Japanese earlier this year built a first-class airport, has the primary objective of blocking the enemy from the vital supply line linking North America and Australia, and the secondary purpose of gaining an offensive base for future operations against powerful Japanese outposts in the Northeast Solomons and, beyond them, the main Japanese naval and air bases surrounding the island of Truk in the Caroline group.

Although it is doubtful if large ground forces are involved in the battle, there can be no doubt about its intensity. In its preliminary stages, extending over the past four days, the Japanese have had seven ships damaged, including one battleship, and thirty-three planes shot down or put out of action on the ground, the navy announced today.

The mere fact that the Japanese, after their experiences at the Battle of Midway, would take capital ships into the narrow waters surrounding Guadalcanal, shows the strategic value they place on possession of the island.

FIGHT DEVELOPING

The American Army troops sent in to reinforce the marine units have met the enemy, reinforced jungle legions in rough country west of the airport, and it appeared that the mainland fight was developing there.

A midday navy communique, which gave the most complete account yet of the action, described the enemy's forces and told of new blows dealt the Japanese in preliminary phases of the fighting. On the other hand, the enemy was reported to have been successful in bombing the airfield, and the previously announced bombardment of the field and its defenders by Japanese surface ships last Tuesday night was described as "heavy." Loss of two United States fighter planes was also announced.

But there were no indications of how the aero-amphibious battle was going, or whether either side had gained any advantage which would give it an edge on victory.

OBJECT BECOMES CLEAR

The pattern of the initial Japanese assault became clear from the communique's account of the actions leading up to the furious engagement. The Japanese purpose throughout was to knock out the airfield to deprive the American defenders of their aerial support.

In this they apparently were not successful, since the planes were in action after the enemy attacks.

The first of the Japanese attacks came on the night of October 12-13, when the surface ships, including battleships, cruisers and destroyers, bombarded the field. They followed this up the next afternoon with two bomber attacks. The first group of bombers met no resistance from American fighters. The second attack was resisted, and the Japanese lost thirteen planes.

The next night the Japanese brought up transports with escort forces of battleships, cruisers and destroyers, and on Tuesday morning (Guadalcanal time) (Wednesday afternoon, Washington time) they landed heavy reinforcements for their troops.

Mine Restriction May Be Relaxed

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP).—Restrictions on the employment of men by gold mines may be relaxed for mines which also produce base metals essential to the war effort, it was learned today.

Selective Service officials have received representations from some mines which produce such war-important metals as tungsten and copper as well as gold. Consideration is being given to making special provision for mines of this type.

Final decisions are likely to be made by regional Selective Service officers, it was said here.

GUNNER ROWE ON WAY HOME

Victoria Hero of Dieppe Arrives in Montreal—Speaks on Air

Good news came to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Rowe, 1420 Camosun Street, yesterday morning when they received a telephone call from their son, Gunner H. J. (Hank) Rowe, shortly after he arrived in Montreal along with other veterans of the Dieppe raid who have returned to Canada.

As soon as he could reach a telephone Hank, as he is so well known throughout the city and province, called his father and told him he was on his way home.

"It was certainly good to hear his voice," said Mr. Rowe, "and I'm glad he's back."

Gunner Rowe, who was twice wounded during the raid and was awarded the Military Medal, was also heard by some Victorians over the air during broadcasting ceremonies of the arrival.

GOES AFTER GUN

Interviewed in Montreal, he said he was sent to Dieppe with other artillerymen to get a complete German "ack-ack" gun of a certain type because the British General Staff wanted to have a look at its sighting mechanism which was supposed to "be pretty hot."

"I was in that left flank outfit that had the chance encounter with the E-boat patrol and naturally the Germans, warned of our approach, gave us hell," he said. "So, instead of taking back an ack-ack gun—something we all had our hearts set on doing—I got back to England in my underwear and a blanket."

A barrage of shrapnel had given him minor wounds and torn his clothing. Before he was placed on board a destroyer three smaller craft had sunk under him and in the subsequent struggles in the water he lost or cut off most of his clothing.

"A big English sailor grabbed me out of the water the last time, told me cheerily I was indecent, and gave me a blanket. That's the way I arrived back in England."

His only complaint was that one piece of shrapnel lodged in his jaw near his ear and "made eating uncomfortable for quite a while. However I'm going to make up for it now."

THE DIM-OUT

If it becomes necessary, in the opinion of the general officer commanding the Pacific Command of Canada's western defences and the leaders of the three armed services under him, to dim-out all lights on the southern end of Vancouver Island facing the Strait of Juan de Fuca and the sea, citizens in this area will accept the restrictions thereby implied with good grace. They will have, indeed, no alternative; but, beyond that, they will wish, too, to support those who are vested with the responsibility for the defence of our shores.

The dim-out, we are told, may come. Its primary purpose is explained as a practical means of cutting down the curtain of light against which ships offshore may be silhouetted, and therefore torpedoed under cover of darkness by some wandering submarine that has eluded coastal defence safeguards. The occasion itself might be rare, but even one such tragedy is worth preventing, when it can be done at the expense of a little precaution taken in advance. We have for our comfort similar precautions already taken in the Gulf of the St. Lawrence, where such action was demonstrated as necessary.

It is less generally known, perhaps, that most coastwise communities on the Pacific are already dimmed out; notably south of the international border. As Canada holds the north shore of the Strait of Juan de Fuca, it would be both a practical and a friendly gesture to turn down our lights, if there is a genuine need to do so. As to that need, the general officer commanding, and his associates, are probably the best judges. It is they who have the facts. So if a dim-out is ordered, a dim-out there will be.

While the actual instruction remains in abeyance for the moment, we can, and should, examine what may be involved. Of necessity, all lights facing the waterfront will have to be screened, or turned out. Automobile lights, front or rear, will have to be cowled, or go dark. Street lights will be affected in many areas, where there is a direct path to the water. Front rooms in homes and in other waterfront premises will need to have their shades and curtains drawn. Shipyards, with their flood-lights, may be put to some inconvenience and a re-arrangement of their lighting systems.

The dim-out, on the other hand, is not a black-out; and some communities, notably in Great Britain, have lived under the conditions of a total black-out now for three years. While the details of what a dim-out will involve remain to be worked out, whatever they may be they can be met with patience and good will on the part of the general public, if the order is made. Indeed, there will be no other way, in that event; for here will be something that we shall all have to work out amicably and together. Over all is the issue of confidence in those who lead us; and there is, happily, no question about that.

BILLETING

While one swallow does not make a Summer, nor one case of indifference condemn a whole community, there is much point to the claim that more understanding sympathy and practical provision will have to be made for servicemen's wives and families in the Greater Victoria area. The issue is one which goes right to the root of morale on the home front, and is, therefore, a matter of first importance.

A genuine shortage of housing, the influx of considerable numbers of families from out-of-town points, and the uncertain conditions of service life itself, have all added to the complexities of the situation. Rental control and assisted housing construction have at times eased some of the problem; but that a good deal remains to be done can be seen from the reported instances of those who seek shelter and cannot find it here.

Sometimes, too, it is the quality of the shelter that is at fault. At one or two outlying points, near military or other camps, married families have lived in quarters that ordinarily would be condemned. Resort to basement rooms and visible crowding are other evidences of the same thing in urban districts themselves. It is, however, the human factor that must remain uppermost. For here are young married couples in need of help. In some instances, single men upon arrival here have passed their first night on a bench in the park. That should not be.

The problem is first the responsibility of the services themselves. What effort has been made, or is being made, to secure suitable billeting for married men in their ranks? Has there been a recognition of the real gravity of the problem, particularly where young married people are concerned? What steps have been taken to pool such lists of lodgings as are available; or to increase those lists by canvass? There is no doubt that in individual cases action has been taken; but there does not yet appear to be any overall co-ordination of these plans.

Is it too much to suggest that an inter-service committee, composed of members of the three armed services, with billeting officers, and perhaps their wives, be formed to take this problem in charge? Such a committee would have precise knowledge of landings and arrivals, of those on the married strength of the respective forces, and also would have behind it the weight of the Crown in seeking needed accommodation. For no community can fill a need until its want is known.

Greater Victoria wishes and desires for these young couples a happy stay in healthful, clean and fitting surroundings. Particularly where there are young children is this essential. It is distressing to think of even one couple that tramped city streets, with their children in their arms, looking for a place to lay their heads. Organization and action can cure these omissions; and both would appear to be urgently needed, now. In the last analysis, when one of the services moves a married man it should go the rest of the way, and insure not alone his family's housing, but his very peace of mind. For that is where morale begins.

FOR SEAMEN

Tomorrow on city streets canvassers of the Victoria and Island Division of the Navy League of Canada will approach the public for help with its ditty-bag programme, in support of the naval and merchant service. Into a seaman's ditty-bag go many comforts not supplied by the services themselves. They include sewing kits with needle and thread for the make-and-mend days at sea; books to read in dull watches below; cribbage boards, socks, and much more besides.

[illegible] Canadian Navy, and in the Merchant Marine, who stand long watches under difficult conditions at sea. For into the ditty-bag goes that which would be contributed by solicitous ones at home. Seamen, often, are far from their homes, and such a gift is sincerely appreciated. A ditty-bag means much to the man who receives it.

Already, within the space of a few months, the Navy League organization here has prepared and distributed 1,600 fully stocked ditty-bags. Approximately double that number may be required to fill quotas in sight now. The actual cost of one ditty-bag is three dollars, so that such a programme requires funds. Tomorrow, Victoria citizens will be asked to help in this, where they can.

HISTORY OF WAR

While history cannot be written contemporaneously and be complete, the notes upon which it must be based can only be gathered slowly, painfully, and as they become available. Profiting from the mistakes of last time, Canada should make certain that the recorder and the archivist are at work in this war. For, the sober fact remains that there is no complete or official history of the unforgettable service of the First Canadian Corps between 1914 and 1918.

An official war history was begun in the post-war period. It grew to two volumes, covering approximately the first year of the conflict. It was then found to contain little more than a pinning together of operation orders in the field, speeches in Parliament, and everything but an actual record of Canada's men under fire. That attempt was abandoned, and its completion would have been worthless, anyway. All that remained were some excellent battalion histories, the work of individual authors.

Some time ago, Ottawa announced that the history of Canadian forces in this war would be more carefully guarded. It would need to be. Men who lay down their lives in sacrifice for the freedom of mankind are entitled to a just place and full record in the archives of this land. Unforgettable courage has been shown by Canadians in this war. On land, sea and in the air, the record lengthens daily and even hourly. The nation is entitled to expect that this record is being preserved, and in competent hands. Men should not die only to be forgotten.

MALTA'S BAG

Ninety enemy planes in five days has been Malta's "bag" since Sunday; a score which must put the George Cross island community well over the 900 mark since the inception of the conflict. That is nearly the equivalent of a full-sized air fleet, and a stiff dose besides for the morale of the much-tooted Luftwaffe, and its Italian component.

There is little doubt, moreover, that what the enemy is losing over Malta are not its poorest, but its best pilots and aircrews, those who have been most aggressive in the fight. With singular coolness, Malta and its gallant garrisons have withstood three years of almost incessant air attack without flinching. Its air defences are acknowledged the most successful in the world.

Long ago, one believes, the enemy gave up whatever thought he may have had of conquering Malta. The attacks since then have been by way of diversions, to hold down British planes while Axis convoys threaded the narrow and mined mazes of the Mediterranean Sea. Very costly diversions they have been. Ninety enemy planes in five days, for attacks which were uniformly repulsed, is a result which speaks for itself.

THE SPACIOUS FIRMAMENT ON HIGH

The spacious firmament on high,
With all the blue eternal sky,
And spangled heavens, a shining frame,
Their great Original proclaim;
The unwearied sun, from day to day,
Does his Creator's power display,
And publishes to every land
The work of an' Almighty hand.

Soon as the evening shades prevail,
The moon takes up the wondrous tale
And nightly to the listening earth
Repeats the story of her birth,
While all the stars that round her burn,
And all the planets in their turn,
Confirm the tidings as they roll,
And spread the truth from pole to pole.

What though, in solemn silence, all
Move round the dark terrestrial ball?
What though no real voice or sound
Amid their radiant orbs be found?
In Reason's ear they all rejoice,
And utter forth a glorious voice,
Forever singing, as they shine,
"The hand that made us is divine!"

—Andrew Marvell.

THE MUSIC OF THE SEA

The night is calm and cloudless,
And still as still can be,
And the stars come forth to listen
To the music of the sea.
They gather, and gather, and gather,
Until they crowd the sky,
And listen in breathless silence
To the solemn litany.
It begins in rocky caverns,
As a voice that chants alone
To the pedals of the organ
In monotonous undertone;
And anon from shelving beaches
And shallow sands beyond,
In snow-white robes uprising,
The ghostly choirs respond.
And sadly and unceasing
The mournful voice sings on,
And the snow-white choirs still answer,
Chiste eleison

—Henry W. Longfellow.

Nature's noblemen are everywhere—in town and out of town, gloved and rough-handed, rich and poor. Prejudice against a lord, because he is a lord, is losing the chance of finding a good fellow; as much as prejudice against a ploughman because he is a ploughman.—N. P. Willis.

He that boasts of his ancestors, the founders and raisers of a family, doth confess that he hath less virtue.—Jerry Taylor.

THE SEA OF NO NAME (5)

It is a very beautiful ocean, the Sea of No Name. Man stands, as it were, apart from his world; watches the making of tides; sees the sun come up over the far away horizon, lowering its light from the mountain tops to the valleys, and from the valleys to the seashore. Life on the ground bestirs itself. Little ships put out to sea. High in the air, the sun plays tricks with light and shade; sending the shadow of a cloud skittering across a green, [illegible] capped peak to flame and leaving its neighbor in darkness; disclosing here the clear blue vault of heaven, and leaving there a tangled skein of clouds.

* * *

The wind, like an eternal shepherd, rallies the clouds and drives them inland over the thirsty plains. The wind plays endless pranks with its woolly sheep, the clouds. It piles them one on top of the other high into the air, into vast and rounded domes. It lays them out flat on their sides, layer upon layer, as far as the eye can see. It breaks through the layers into endless corridors, each with a patch of blue at its ultimate gate. The wind does more. It seems to fan itself, in circles. From the surface it will revolve like the hands of a clock, with every gain in altitude. Higher up, it blows in great unseen sheets, thousands of feet thick, and hurrying fast. It leaves mares' tails upon the water, and sometimes high in the air it will mackerel vast leagues of the sky. The wind is servant to the sun and a busy fellow.

* * *

Even the storm is beautiful in the air. Far below one can watch the dark clouds gather. The shadows now grow dark and darker. At the edge a vast black mountain of cloud drives like a bolt against its neighbor. Thunder echoes out, reverberating along all of the airy corridors of space. In a dazzling flash, lightning forks out; silhouetting a grand, but awful scene. Its lean, white fingers grope for the earth, find a path, and crash on through. For a moment the ribboned flame seems to fatten, to grow thicker; and then it grows thin, and breaks the livid chain. Again and again the thunderheads charge, forward, bull-necked and stubborn. Whole seas of clouds are lighted up with darting, silvery spears and black, macabre shadows. The thunderheads break up. In lessening peals the thunder rolls away. The lightning, now enfeebled, tires to but a flickering shadow buried under minor clouds. Nature has restored her aerial balance. Rain falls upon the thirsty land, or splashes unseen into the sea.

* * *

How beautiful by night is the Sea of No Name! The stars wink on like distant lighthouses; though they are great suns seen from afar. The moon cavorts across a blue-black dome; climbing up the sides of fleecy mountains, skating down their other sides; burying itself in silvered tracery, where cloud edges lap and overlap. From east to west, with many a seeming pause to see its image in forest lake and mountain stream, the moon rides on; ticking the hours of night away, leaving a broad and dancing train across the surface of the sea. Above the shifting clouds, the seven daughters of Atlas, the Pleiades, resume their nightly flight across the seasons of the year; now seen, now lost, then back again in all their sparkling glory. Like friendly coasts, the stars and constellations are signposts in the cubic air-ocean. There is no blackout there.

* * *

If one has witnessed beauty on the land and water—and surely there is much—in the air it comes in breathless sheets and endless panoramas. It is as small as a round-ring traveling rainbow on a sunlit cloud-top; and as large as the vast, and sparkling dome of heaven, cloud-free and clear. But we must take it gently. Too much beauty satiates and stales the senses; withdraws the wonder of a perfect thing. Now, at 3,000 feet, we enter cloudlands; a strange and elfin territory, where every form and shape dissolve as soon as they are touched. There is little solid substance here, but shadows pull the heartstrings with double force for all of that. Tomorrow, then, to cloudlands, if you are with me still.

RUM GOES BEGGING

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP).—Good imported rum went begging at less than $1 a gallon at a customs auction here. The crowd was too busy bidding for coffee at rocketing figures to spare time for spirits.

THE SUPREME PENALTY

BATH, England, Oct. 15 (CP).—Two eleven-year-old girls, charged with stealing a purse to buy chocolates, paid the supreme wartime penalty today for such an offence—they lost their sweets ration for one month.

Fingerprinting of Army Personnel Will Begin Soon

Plans for the fingerprinting, photographing and documentation of servicemen in all army camps and stations in M.D. 11 are expected to get under way soon, it was officially stated yesterday.

To carry out this project, which officials described as a tremendous task since it will have to cover not only recruits as they join up but all personnel enlisted since 1939, the army will set up its own facilities, under a new department to be known as the Canadian Army Identification Bureau.

The work will be carried out along lines similar to those used by the Provincial Police.

Photographic units will shortly visit every camp and station to fingerprint, photograph and document every man. In M.D. 11 the work will be done under the direction of Major S. Henson, Vancouver, records officer.

Observation Car

By G. B.

Note from Hubert: "I accompanied a friend to a Vancouver Street garage for the purpose of checking over his automobile before proceeding to Brentwood to augment our larders with fresh fish. A tire was changed, the required amount of air placed in the others, the battery given attention, and supplies of gasoline and oil taken aboard. As I waited beside the car, Tommy commenced to back a machine out of the garage. He shouted amid the roar of the engine to the apprentice: 'Harold, how close am I to that car by the pumps?' Harold apparently did not see us by the car, and roared back: 'That is okay, Tommy. That isn't one of our cars. It merely belongs to Mr. ——.' One could have heard a pin drop when Harold looked up and saw the owner. Needless to say, he made himself scarce" . . . From an editorial in The New York News: "We remarked recently that we expected the returning warriors to take control of this country after the war and run it in whatever way the majority of them want it to be run. How they will want the country operated after the war, we have no idea. Whatever system they will want they will have, and those of us who do not like it will just have to bear up as best we may. These men will have given some of the best years of their lives to the saving of their country. To them after the final victory, the country will owe its life as an independent nation. There will probably be no money, at least the kind we now know, but there will be plenty of farm lands, oil fields, mineral deposits and productive apparatus. Veterans will dig deep into this real wealth" . . . In Tillamook, Ore., a man saw one of his children chewing on a small copper cylinder. He took it away from the child and pried it open with a toothpick. As a result, he lost two fingers from his right hand. It was a dynamite cap . . . The first ascent into the air was made in 1783 by De Rozier in France. He used a captive balloon of linen inflated with warm air. Santos-Dumont, a Brazilian, flew a dirigible powered by a twelve horse power engine around the outskirts of Paris in 1897.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table—the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

CRASH KILLS NINE

CHICAGO, Oct. 15 (AP).—Nine persons were killed today when a United States army transport plane crashed and burned on the Southwest Side, army officials announced.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist of October 16, 1892)

The Proposed Highland Corps—The enthusiastic young Scotsmen who sought permission to establish a Highland brigade in Victoria, and who interviewed the Minister of Militia on the subject during his late visit to this province, are much disappointed that their application has not been acceded to. General Herbert, as was stated, thinks that efficient batteries of artillery are what the province needs. The promoters of the movement have not as yet received any official notification on the subject, and a few of them still cling to the hope that their object will be ultimately gained.

The Driard Conservatory—The plans for the new Driard conservatory are expected to be ready tomorrow and work upon the building will be commenced during the week. The conservatory will be in the main court, so that guests on the way to the dining hall will pass through an "avenue of palms."

To Visit the World's Fair—The members of the Fire Department propose to enter into an agreement whereby each fireman will contribute the sum of $1 per month for the next five months to a fund for the purpose of sending one of their number to the World's Fair at Chicago. The lucky man is to be determined by lot.

No letter to the Editor will be inserted except over the proper signature and address of the writer. This rule admits of no exception. No letter should exceed 400 words in length.

THANKS GIVEN

Sir,—Now that the food conservation committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society has completed its seasonal jam-making activities, may we, through your columns, thank those who took part in it?

First, we wish to offer our thanks to those workers whose efforts made it possible to produce five tons of jam, especially to Mrs. A. J. A. Bell, without whose able work such satisfactory results could hardly have been obtained; also to Mrs. Saunderson who so kindly convened the making of jam for local distribution. We would also like to thank the mayor and aldermen for the use of the Sunshine Inn, Miss Charlotte Martin for testing the finished product, Mr. Scarisbrook for putting together the boxes for shipment overseas, the Cameron Lumber Company for gift of a load of wood, and the Douglas Hotel for its refrigerator space.

To those persons who responded so generously to our appeal for fruit we would like to express our appreciation for their donations and to say that we have made good use of them.

VIOLET J. RAYMENT,
Convener.

1526 Fell Street, Victoria, B.C., October 14, 1942.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS

Sir,—May I, through your columns, make an appeal for certain books needed for the I.O.D.E. War Services Library? Books in the French language are especially wanted for those men who do not read English; also books on gardening, both flower and vegetable; fresh-water fishing and books on the Russian language. If anyone has books of this type, or modern fiction and popular non-fiction, will he please leave them in the basket in the book department of David Spencer, Ltd., from whence they will be delivered to the War Services Library for distribution to the camps.

May I also take this opportunity of thanking those friends who have in the past few months contributed to the War Services Library in this way, and to the management and staff of David Spencer, Ltd., who have made the collection possible.

REVERIE

Sir,—The longer I live the more peculiar a place does this world appear to me to live in. Beautiful enough in itself but degraded by its inhabitants. Oh, yes, we have our devout men, sometimes not very logical or convincing, and our scientists and wise men, today performing miracles of engineering and craftsmanship, and the last should be first—our brave men.

But where does it all lead us? Day after day we are regaled over the radio with the frenzied shouts of tens of thousands of sports enthusiasts or the cacaphony of sounds called music. And, afar, slowly dying from starvation and torture, are the millions of soundless peoples slipping over the edge into eternity. How does it all strike you? Why, on any other planet it seems to me these hell-hounds would have long ago been swept off its face. And here and wherever there is peace and plenty we eat and amuse ourselves as usual with little or no personal and direct heed to the background of agony and suffering.

How about it, little man? Are you just drifting about looking for a current to take you away from your duty? It should be more than a duty, a chance to prove your manhood. And so, with the mute appeal rising to High Heaven of all those martyrs made and being made, many of us go on living, apparently satisfied with what is being done, moving in our own little orbit with little change from our regular way of life, listening to the voices over the radio and taking care to have our feet in the food trough. Thus we condone by our apathy and self satisfaction suffering and wrongs impossible to express, and help to blacken the pages of the Book of Time beyond reading. Let those who can take courage and even pleasure from the flowers of kindness and sacrifice, whose blooms appear to flourish amid all this rubble of everyday life and blasted ideals. As Robert Louis Stevenson put it years ago:

"Meanwhile our rotary island, loaded with predatory life and more drenched with blood, both animal and vegetable, than ever mutinied ship, scuds through space with unimaginable speed and turns alternate cheeks to the reverberation of a blazing world ninety million miles away."

A peculiar place to live indeed!

W. F. CRONYN.

1187 Beach Drive, Victoria, B.C., October 15, 1942.

A.R.P. WORKERS

Sir,—If a census was taken of A.R.P. workers, it would be found that the majority are those who for years have been very active in the welfare of their community, using their spare time for the benefit of those citizens who are too lazy or indifferent to care about their own future or present conditions and safety. And yet, these volunteer workers are finding time to attend meetings, learning first-aid treatment, and training themselves to protect the lives and property of those placid, fireside and pleasure-loving residents in their community.

To the men who excuse themselves because they are tired after a day's work: so is your A.R.P. warden, auxiliary firemen, stretcher bearers, special police and all those working for your protection, tired or not, this is total war. Let us have more of that British teamwork, all classes are working together for their common good. Fire bombs do not come singly; they may come in hundreds, and without organized effort you cannot expect to deal with them successfully. It is true we shall receive help from other districts, but it takes time to travel around.

Co-ordination in each district will be one of the best factors in dealing with any calamity. Are you, an able-bodied man, going to hide in the basement, while it is possible that an old man over seventy years is patroling your district? You may say: I am willing when the time comes. Your efforts will be almost futile without the necessary basic training. Teamwork is what counts. An air-raid warden has a stirrup pump. It takes three men to operate it successfully. Are you going to help him? A first-aid man requires stretcher bearers. Volunteer firemen require help. Can you assist them without a little knowledge of the same? This work is compulsory in Britain and a prison term for those who refuse.

From information received, the ranks of the A.R.P. in some districts have depleted 50 per cent. To the ladies: we urgently need your co-operation regarding materials for extra bandages; old blankets that can be used to keep the injured warm. Your first-aid posts cannot have too many. Make patchwork of odd pieces from discarded Winter overcoats, you may not have much to offer but your neighbor has a little, too; how about a sewing bee amongst you? This appeal should not be necessary, but after three years surely you must realize the need of being prepared for what can happen here.

L. FLETCHER.

INCOME TAX

Sir,—Re my letter of October 1 on the above, am in receipt of a personal reply from the Hon. Minister of Finance, in which he states that an exemption for householders without dependent kin sharing the home had never been allowed by the Dominion as by the British Columbia Government, but points out that special consideration has been given older people in the 1942 budget, when the savings provision was inserted by the following amendment: All persons over sixty-five years of age whose income did not exceed $5,000 a year were exempt from this portion of the tax.

A. J. MORLEY.

1246 Montrose Avenue, October 14, 1942.

According to Culbertson

There are two separate and distinct questions a declarer should ask himself, before he takes a finesse. These are: (1) Is the finesse necessary? (2) What will (or may) happen if the finesse loses?

If South, in the following hand, had put these questions to himself and answered them logically, he would have achieved a far happier result. The hand:

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable

NORTH

The bidding:

North	East	South	West

West opened the heart four and declarer, after mentally debating whether to put in dummy's queen or let the lead ride to his own ten, decided that the single finesse was the better play. East promptly smothered the queen and shifted to a low spade. Declarer held up the ace as long as possible, but the defenders persisted with the suit, and by the time the unavoidable club finesse was taken and lost, East had the setting trick ready to cash.

An expert in the South position would not be troubled over the relative merit of a single and a double finesse at the first trick; he would confine his attention to the question of whether any heart finesse was necessary or advisable. He would carefully observe that the bulk of tricks for his contract could most easily and safely be found in the club suit, and he would concentrate on the vital point that the club finesse would be taken into the East hand. If the finesse lost (he would see) East would be unable to make any dangerous attack in hearts, since the Q-3 still would be in dummy. Thus, the player who truly appreciated the problem in this deal would put up the heart ace at the very first trick, lead a diamond to the ace or king, and then let the club nine "ride." If East held up the club king, another finesse would be taken and East then could make no return that would jeopardize declarer's nine tricks.

It is imperative that a declarer should be able to differentiate between vital and nonvital finesses.

Selective Services Director Knows Job

Elliott M. Little Has Had Varied Training for Big Post He Holds in Canada's War Effort—Feels at Home in Shirt Sleeves

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP).—Elliott M. Little has rolled up his shirt sleeves to tackle one of the most difficult problems a Canadian ever faced. It may be part of the dual personality of this worker-executive who heads National Selective Service, that he feels more at home when he sheds his coat and rolls up his sleeves.

But shirt-sleeve approach does not detract from the trim appearance of this husky forty-two-year-old. Outside his office, in conference with the Cabinet or other officials, he usually appears in flannel slacks and a loose-fitting jacket.

The informality of his clothes is typical of Mr. Little—"Ellie" to most of his close associates. He is a man easy to meet but with a straight-from-the-shoulder attitude that is apparent as soon as he talks, and there's a determination that shows in his jaw.

He left his desk as a paper-mill executive, head of the Rothermere interests in Canada, to do a war job. That job was to help the Government tabulate the country's technical personnel—engineers, scientists and research workers. Establishing the wartime bureau of technical personnel he made a success of that assignment, and when the time came to choose a manpower boss, Mr. Little was asked to take over.

WORK AT FOURTEEN

Part of the confidence he has been able to inspire among both workers and employers is probably due to the fact that before he attained an executive post he did manual work in a paper mill. He started at fourteen as an office boy but, after several years in the mill and then training as a pilot in the First Great War, he managed to scrape up enough money to complete a university course in electrical engineering.

That experience has given him a clear insight into the problems of labor and has put him in a position from which he told several hundred union delegates recently that "Labor . . . should demonstrate a greater appreciation of the difficulties which face management these days."

He has been equally outspoken in talking to employers. He has told them, without pulling any punches, that it is time they placed more confidence in labor and time they set up plant organizations to give labor a voice in management. And he has warned that unless employers want to do it voluntarily selective service may find it necessary to use compulsion.

Still he is convinced that voluntary action is preferable wherever it is possible. The product selective service deals in is human beings. Elliott Little has shown that he is careful to remember that. Some of the steps necessary to the war effort are painful, but the director of selective service has had enough hard knocks in his own life to inflict as few as possible on others.

TRAINING IN 1918

Born in Beachburg, Ont., in the Ottawa Valley, he went to Haileybury, Ont., with his family when he was three. At ten he entered high school and your years later was an office boy in the Abitibi paper mills.

He was doing odd sorts of manual work when he enlisted for the first Great War at sixteen, but his family objected because of his age, so he was discharged. At eighteen he joined the Royal Flying Corps and was in training when the war ended. He worked for a time, took a returned soldiers' course and then entered University of Toronto. In 1925 he was back at Abitibi as a qualified engineer.

In 1932 he joined the Anglo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Mills, of which he now is general manager and on loan to the Government—a dollar-a-year man who doesn't ask for the dollar, not even toward his own expenses.

PIONEER STONE MASON PASSES

William Heatherbell Was Resident of Victoria for Fifty-Six Years

William Heatherbell, pioneer construction worker of this city, and a resident of British Columbia for fifty-eight years, died here yesterday. During the last half century he was employed on the stone and concrete work on some of the largest buildings jobs in the Greater Victoria area, including the Parliament Buildings and Hatley Park Castle, now known as Royal Roads.

Born in Liverpool, England, where he learned his trade as a bricklayer and stone mason, he came to British Columbia in 1884. He settled on Hornby Island, later moved to Nanaimo and in 1888 came to Victoria. He worked on the construction of St. Ann's Convent and was superintendent of the brick and mason work during the construction of Work Point Barracks.

He was a member of the Masonic Order.

Surviving are a son, Ernest H., of Richmond, Va.; a daughter, Margaret Florence Johnstone, of Wells, B.C.; and a grandson and granddaughter, also of Wells. His wife predeceased him two years ago.

Funeral arrangement will be announced later.

Prince to Visit The West Indies

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP). — Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands, who is in Ottawa, will visit The Netherlands West Indies "shortly," it was announced here today. Princess Juliana will not accompany him.

CRUISER IS PUT OUT OF ACTION

There were no details of the progress of this rugged struggle which has been going on since patrol clashes began last Monday. It was being fought in the vicinity of Templeton's Crossing where a winding trail descends towards Kokoda.

Allied airmen co-operating with the Australian bush troops below bombed enemy installations at the rear point of Wairopi, near Templeton's Crossing itself, and all along the track leading to Buna.

An Allied reconnaissance unit also ranged far to the north to attack Japanese installations at Salamaua in Upper New Guinea.

In the northwestern aerial theatre Allied medium bombers raided the Japanese-held village of Alleu on the Island of Timor "causing some damage," the communique said.

Famous Marines Come Tomorrow For Loan Parade

Bataan, Wake Island and the Solomon Islands and the heroic stands and personal exploits of the famous United States Marines will be brought closer to Victoria tomorrow when, on the arrival of the Seattle boat, three officers and 100 men of this historic corps will arrive to take part in the Third Victory Loan parade and be the guests of local naval units.

Official recognition of the detachment and the corps will be made when Hon. John Hart, Premier, inspects them on arrival and makes them welcome on behalf of the Province. His Worship Mayor McGavin will make civic honors and J. W. Spencer, chairman of the Vancouver Island Division, National War Finance Committee, will also be on hand to assure the visitors of Victoria's appreciation of their contribution to the war loan drive.

The "leathernecks" will march in the van of the Parade of the Services and, for the first time, United States servicemen will appear on the streets fully accoutred and armed. Arriving about 12:30, it is expected that the marines will make the environs of the C.P.R. dock their headquarters until 1:30 p.m., when they will be transported to the assembly point at Hillside Avenue and Douglas Street.

SOVIETS ASKING HESS BE TRIED

The Molotov communication, dealing exclusively with "the leaders of Fascist Germany" and ignoring the Italians and other Axis figures, cited specifically and in this order, "Hitler, Goering, Hess, Himmler, Ribbentrop and Rosenburg," as "organizers of German atrocities."

Molotov said that the Soviet Union was prepared to support practical measures for retribution against individuals which have been taken by "Allied and friendly Governments," and that it "expects that all interested states will mutually assist each other in searching for, extradition, prosecution and stern punishment of Hitlerites and their accomplices guilty of organization, encouragement or perpetration of crimes on occupied territory."

He also expressed agreement with President Roosevelt's speech of October 12 regarding trial and punishment of the "clique of leaders and their cruel accomplices" responsible for acts of brutality.

ISLAND MUST MEASURE UP

Major Harold Brown Calls Upon Citizens to Exceed Quota in Loan Drive

Describing the third Victory Loan as another stride along the path of duty, Major Harold Brown yesterday called upon citizens of Vancouver Island division to exceed the quota and thereby set an example to the rest of Canada.

Major Brown spoke in the Empress Hotel, before members of the Rotary Club, their wives and friends, members of the Soroptimist Club, loan officials and representatives of the three fighting services.

A colorful pageant was presented with a cast of more than forty women, representing branches of the services and groups contributing to war work on the industrial front. Miss Violet Wilson supplied a running commentary and the Navy Band contributed the musical setting.

HAZARDOUS TASKS

With high praise for the men in three fighting services, Major Brown told of the hazardous duties being carried out by the navy, army and air force "with unparalleled valor," and of the unhappy lot of those held prisoner by the Axis, who were "suffering the worst fate of all."

He described it as the duty of those "called upon to keep the home fires burning to reach high peaks of sacrifice" in their country's struggle for victory. The support of the Victory Loan, he included in this task.

"We will, we must, bounce this immediate task over the top with a bang," the speaker declared. "It is the absolute and inescapable duty of every one of us to provide instinctively and furiously the sinews of war."

HEROINES RECALLED

In a prelude to the pageant, Miss Wilson recalled the heroism of Canadian women in times of distress and conflict.

"In the last war," she said, "Canadian women died of fever in Mesopotamia, were killed by bombs in France and were drowned in the cold waters of the Atlantic."

Represented in the pageant were the Canadian Women's Army Corps; R.C.A.F. (Women's Division); Canadian Red Cross Corps; St. John Ambulance Association, Nursing Division; the A.R.P.; canteen workers; nursing groups attached to the three services; Victoria Salvage Corps, and representatives of those women replacing men in industrial and commercial activities, including cabinet workers, taxi drivers, paint shop, radio, railroad and farm workers and hotel telegraph messenger girls.

The pageant was produced by Miss Wilson and Mrs. H. S. Hurn. After the performance they were congratulated by Frank Turley, president, who also made a presentation to them on behalf of the Rotary Club.

EXECUTED IN REPRISAL

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP).—The Luxembourg Government said tonight it had received the names of twenty-five Luxembourgers executed by the Germans in reprisal for a general strike called in protest against annexation of the Grand Duchy by Germany. It said scores of others had been deported.

V BUY TO LAST SAVE TO WIN V

These Six Words Describe a Wartime Duty That Every Good Citizen is Glad to Face

The fact remains and cannot be dodged, that we as civilians can help win the war by buying only when it is necessary and then buying only longer-lasting products. For the longer an article lasts the less often it needs to be replaced, resulting in a saving of our country's raw materials—a saving in factory facilities and labour. Also remember that buying for longer service is an economy.

Today more than ever before take care of your battery. Make sure before you buy a new one that your present battery is worn out. The Exide Dealer in your district has been carefully chosen to give honest battery service. He will help you to get from the battery you now have all the service it is capable of giving. Painting Wins Art Gallery Popularity Vote

MYFANWY SPENCER CAMPBELL

HIGHEST marks in the popularity contest conducted by the Vancouver Art Gallery held in connection with the British Columbia Artists' Exhibition now on display at the gallery, were accorded Myfanwy Spencer Campbell's "Trudie," a portrait in oils of Mrs. James Munro. Visitors, on the opening night of the exhibition, were invited to cast their ballot on the picture of their choice, and a preference was found for the Victoria artist's work, followed by John Douglas Gregson with "Revelation Pass," and Vaughn Grayson, of Penticton, with "Mount Rundle." The contest and its award are of particular interest in this city where the work of the young artist, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spencer, has been followed with close attention, and also because the model "Trudie," Mrs. James Munro, is the daughter of Mrs. Huntly Green, Victoria. "Trudie" will be included in the collection of portraits to be shown here sometime before Christmas, when the entire proceeds from the event will be donated to the Red Cross. This picture shows Myfanwy Spencer Campbell at work in her studio at "Spencerwood," Ardmore. In the background is seen a portrait of Gertrude Huntly Green.

Jam Shower Great Success For Solarium

The jam shower for the Solarium was a great success, it was announced at a meeting of the W.A. to the Solarium held yesterday afternoon in the clubrooms, with Mrs. E. Newton in the chair. Over 450 jars or tins of jam were received and forwarded to Mill Bay.

Mrs. G. Wise, knitting convener, reported three sweaters and five sweater coats completed, and donations of two vests. Mrs. F. Neelands, sewing convener, reported two-and-a-half dozen blouses and three nightgowns ready for sewing.

Mrs. N. Kelly announced that in the recent contest the chesterfield set was awarded to Mrs. Townsend. Mrs. J. Bayliss and her committee have made a beautiful satin wool-filled quilt from donated materials, and Mrs. Bayliss and Mrs. E. Lea will act as co-conveners in a contest for which the quilt will be the prize.

Jubilee Alumnae Will Sponsor Gay Hallowe'en Dance

The Royal Victoria Yacht Club will be the scene of a gay Hallowe'en dance on Friday evening, October 30, when the members of the Jubilee Hospital Alumnae will be hostesses. The proceeds from the dance will be devoted to their work for the hospital. A popular orchestra will be in attendance and the price of admission will include supper.

Mrs. C. Sutton is the dance convener and will be assisted by the following committee members: Miss C. Strankman, Miss D. Gifford, Miss V. Hall, Miss M. Dickson and Nursing Sister O. Wilson. The Alumnae maintains an infirmary for sick nurses and a restroom for special nurses; besides contributing towards the upkeep of the waiting-room in the Nurses' Home, and supplying minor equipment for the hospital from time to time.

Reservations for the dance may be made through telephoning the president, Mrs. D. Hunter, B 2628, or the convener, Mrs. Sutton, B 1648.

Kinsmen Dance Realizes $755 For Milk Fund

It was announced last night at the regular Kinsmen Club dinner in the Empress Hotel that $755.01 was realized from the Mart Kenney dance staged Thanksgiving Day in aid of the Kinsmen Milk for Britain Fund.

Officials said the dance was an outstanding success in every respect and members were told that Kenney and his orchestra would be brought back for another performance as soon as possible.

Frank Paulding, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A., addressed the meeting on "Public Speaking" and gave several helpful hints on this subject.

Mr. Paulding pointed out that the speaker should have a definite plan for his speech and said, "What a man puts into the ending of his speech must be carefully thought out. A speaker is often judged on the manner in which he ends his talk."

Frederick W. Eagle, a Victoria boy who survived the sinking of H.M.C.S. Ottawa, gave a graphic account of his experiences. Members were intensely interested as the sailor related his story and he received hearty thanks from the president, Harold Bourne, at the conclusion of his talk.

QUADRA

The Victoria Boys' Band under the leadership of Mr. Alfred Prescott gave a spirited programme before the regular business meeting of the Quadra P.-T.A. on Tuesday evening. Mr. H. A. Cameron, [illegible] inspector, spoke in appreciation of the boys' work. Mr. Prescott was introduced to the meeting by Mr. Green. Plans were made for the bazaar to be held on November 4, followed by a card party. Further details will be discussed at a meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. W. Roskelly on Tuesday afternoon, all interested are invited. Mrs. Miles reported sixty-seven paid-up members. Final arrangements were made for the quiz on October 19 between Quadra and James Bay. The evening closed with refreshments served by the social committee. The next meeting will be on November 10, when an interesting film will be shown.

Dr. C. Whitton Informally Discusses Her Hobbies

Dr. Charlotte Whitton, one of Canada's outstanding women, known throughout the continent as a top-ranking speaker, a dynamic former director of the Canadian Welfare Council, one of the seven Canadian women to be created in 1934 a Commander of the Order of the British Empire by King George V, the first time that Canadian women were admitted to such honors, arrived in Victoria yesterday, in the course of a tour.

She will speak here at a series of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Council of Social Agencies.

Often called the "best-known woman in Canada," Dr. Whitton was interviewed Thursday afternoon and questioned, not on her ideas and theories on social agencies, but on herself and her hobbies.

She is happiest, she admits, "when I am at my own cabin camp, away up near the Algonquin Park, in one of the last white pine stands on the Ontario side, or at another camp on Gatineau Hills on the Quebec side. Any time from April to November I can be found there felling trees or piling rocks, fishing or running my motorboat." Dr. Whitton is a capable carpenter, and carries out her own repair work around her camps, and built her sleeping cabin. She is a great lover of outdoors.

HER PET HOBBIES

Referring to her hobbies, Dr. Whitton said: "My great hobby is Queen Elizabeth—the first Queen Elizabeth of England. I have a whole small library on her, and I believe she laid the foundation of the British Empire by directing energies away from the continent of Europe to sea power. She was the first thoroughly modern and independent woman, and thus was vilified by many of her contemporaries. There has been," continued Dr. Whitton, "a tremendous amount of fictionizing without reference to documentary evidence at all. Her life is perfectly clear when you take it into consideration that at seventeen years she was considered by Roger Ascham and Francis Bacon as one of the four most educated people in Europe."

"GOD'S GOOD TIDE"

Dr. Whitton took her degree not in social service, but in English and history, and states she has always attempted to keep up a very real interest in those fields, and her little book, "God's Good Tide," published by Ryerson Press, is now in its sixth printing. Dr. Whitton assigned all profits from this book to the I.O.D.E. in aid of the work for war libraries. The book is an interpretative biography of Miss Whitton's grandmother.

Another "hobby" was referred to by Dr. Whitton when she said: "To keep alive interest in early settlements of Eastern Canada, and the part played by pioneers of British stock in opening and building Canada, which is often overshadowed by the more romantic French period. The English, Scotch and Irish settlers who came to heavy forest lands were often three and four months by sail boat and ox cart getting into these forests. They made a sacrifice of comfort and health with no hope of benefit in their lifetime; it was solely for their children."

Dr. Whitton has been working on a book for private publication dealing with the last hundred years of lumbering in Ottawa Valley, which, over that period has been the greatest lumbering centre in Canada.

RED CROSS

CORDOVA BAY UNIT

A well-attended meeting of the Cordova Bay Red Cross Unit, presided over by Mrs. K. M. Lewis, was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Shillington, "Zumerset," Walema Avenue, on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. McMorran has generously offered the use of his pavilion for a dance, the proceeds for the Red Cross. It was agreed to secure the services of the R.C.A.F. orchestra for sometime after the middle of November. The members decided to meet twice a month, during the Autumn and Winter months, the next meeting to be at the home of Mrs. Ruth Squire, on October 27. It is proposed to make the second meeting in the month a work meeting primarily, and members are requested to bring quilt material. A contest was held by Mrs. A. Bramhall, and won by Mrs. Ian Jack. Mrs. Shillington served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Squire.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi

Mrs. Fred Rough presided over the regular meeting of the Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, held at the home of the director, Mrs. T. Hammond, 2717 Avebury Avenue, recently. Correspondence for the evening included an interesting letter from Dolina MacKinnon, now in Washington, D.C., and a letter from Elsea Peters, now serving in the R.C.A.F. (W.D.). A welcome was extended to the Rushees by the president, Muriel Knight, service convener, asked that the members continue knitting squares for afghans, two of which have already been completed. Joyce Goggin reported that entries are now being taken for the song contest. A parcel of chocolate bars was prepared to be sent overseas for the British children. Members were asked to bring to the next meeting decks of playing cards to be sent to the Beaver Club in England. The cultural programme was prepared and conducted by Frances Law, whose subject was "Her Crowning Glory," which was followed by illustrations and a discussion. A buffet supper was served. The next meeting will be at the Y.W.C.A. on Monday evening, October 26, at 8 o'clock.

Airwomen Inspected By Duchess

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP). — The Duchess of Gloucester, honorary head of Britain's Women's Auxiliary Air Force, today inspected members of the Royal Canadian Air Force Women's Division at their work in R.C.A.F. headquarters.

The Duchess, who holds the rank of air commandant, spent about an hour with the first Canadian airwomen to serve overseas and visited all departments to which they are attached.

Met by Air Marshal Harold Edwards, commander of the R.C.A.F. in Britain, the Duchess inspected a guard of honor under command of Assistant Section Officer Nancy Smith, of Calgary, and then began her tour of the office.

Section Officer Patricia Griffin, of Winnipeg, who is in charge of the Women's Division detachment, was introduced to the Duchess and was asked many questions about the girls' activities in England. She wanted to know whether they are enjoying their stay in London, and was particularly interested in where and how they live.

In the various departments, the Duchess chatted with all the girls she saw and asked many questions about their work. She spoke to A.W.1 Peggy Douglas, of Winnipeg, asking whether she had found any relatives in England with whom she could spend her leave.

The Duchess also spoke to L.A.W. M. A. Long, of Arden, Man., asking whether she had had any leave, and then had a long chat with L.A.W. Jill Wigg, of Nelson, B.C.

It was the first time the Women's Division had been officially inspected by a member of the Royal family or by any senior W.A.A.F. officer.

Civilians Seized Food for Troops In Philippines

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 15 (AP).—A captain in the United States Army Nursing Corps who worked through the entire campaign in the Philippines told today how trucks bearing food supplies to the beleaguered troops of Bataan were "high-jacked" by civilians who had fled to Bataan from Manila.

"About 5,000 civilians went from Manila to Bataan," said Captain Florence MacDonald of Fort Devens, Mass., in an address before the American Hospital Association's war conference, "and the army had to feed them.

"But many of them weren't satisfied with what they got, and sometimes trucks bearing food to those poor boys fighting on the Bataan front were high-jacked and some food taken from them. There were times when the boys at the front had only a few cans of salmon and a little rice."

Her voice breaking at times, the grey-haired nurse told how, in the early days of the Jap attack on the Philippines, "nurses worked with the wounded in operating rooms with tears streaming down their cheeks, but they never broke completely down."

She said that during the blackouts, the darkness was so complete in the hospitals "that you couldn't tell what color your patient was even in the dim light of partly-covered flashlights, and when you'd take a patient's pulse, you couldn't see your watch to count it and you'd have to estimate the rate."

Anglican Young People

ST. ALBAN'S

St. Alban's A.Y.P.A. met Tuesday evening in the church hall with the president, Walter Hamilton, in the chair. A report of the last meeting, in the form of a visit to Carmichael's, Silversmiths, was made by Miss Doris White, and an invitation to attend a Hallowe'en social of St. John's A.Y.P.A. on October 27 was accepted. Reports of the provincial conference held last week-end were made by the delegation and funds voted to supply three yearly subscriptions of the A.Y.P.A. monthly to the forts in the city.

Has Birthday Party

Mr. and Mrs. Christian E. Myren, Langford Lake, gave a party last Sunday for their little daughter, Brenda, who was celebrating her seventh birthday. During the afternoon games and boating were enjoyed by fourteen little guests. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out on the refreshment table, which was centred by two heart-shaped birthday cakes surrounded by four smaller cakes iced in pink. The birthday cake was cut by the little guest of honor with a silver knife from her father's native home in Trondheim, Norway. In the evening the older guests enjoyed a Southern European dinner. Mr. Myren was able to leave his Government duties for a few hours and flew in from the North to be with his family for the occasion. Before leaving every guest received a favor.

Rummage Sale

MISS C. I. GRAY

The engagement is announced of Catharine Isobel, daughter of Mrs. Herald Gray, Balmoral Road, to Mr. Norman Douglas Heaslip, second son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Heaslip, Graham Street. The wedding will take place November 5 at St. Barnabas' Church.

Miss E. J. N. Holmes Weds G. F. Parsons at Ganges

St. George's Church, Ganges, was the scene of the marriage yesterday afternoon of Edith Joyce Noela, elder daughter of Archdeacon and Mrs. G. H. Holmes, Salt Spring Island, and Mr. Gordon Fletcher Parsons, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Parsons, Ganges.

The church had been beautifully decorated by members of St. George's Altar Guild, with a profusion of Autumn flowers in shades of pink, mauve and yellow. On the altar only white dahlias were used. The guest pews were marked with red and white carnations and bows of satin ribbon.

Archdeacon Holmes, vicar of the parish, officiated, assisted by Rev. Frederic Pike, of Cedar Hill. Mr. C. H. Trafford played the wedding music, and the hymns sung were "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Major A. W. Holmes, N.D. headquarters, Ottawa, looked charming in a simple gown of white triple sheer with sweetheart neckline. Over a fitted bodice, with buttons from neckline to waist, was worn a short peplum coat of lace with long pointed sleeves. The veil of silk embroidered net was surmounted by a coronet of orange blossoms, and fell in cascade effect over the dress, forming a short train. Her shower bouquet was of crimson Johann roses, white carnations and asparagus fern.

Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Muriel Holmes, in a floor-length gown of old rose taffeta, trimmed with tiny pale blue velvet bows, with which she wore a blue matching hat with old rose veil.

She carried a Colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses, pink carnations and violets.

Mr. Cyril Holt, cousin of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and ushers were Mr. Frank Hall and Mr. Stanley Wagg.

A reception, attended by over 100 guests, was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was beautifully decorated with Autumn flowers, and where the guests were received by Mrs. Holmes, wearing a handsome gown of black wool crepe embroidered with sequins, a large black hat and corsage bouquet of deep pink roses and fern. Also receiving the guests was Mrs. Parsons, wearing a smart rust-colored crepe ensemble with fawn accessories and corsage bouquet of cream roses. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Pike and the bridegroom responded.

Mr. and Mrs. Parsons have left on a wedding trip to Harrison Hot Springs, and on their return will make their home at Ganges.

Axis troops are striving to reach Tuapse, says the Stockholm correspondent. They are trying to cut off the Russians between there and Novorossisk. Neutrals arriving from Germany report wounded Nazis there as surprised by German propaganda about the strength of Stalingrad "fortress." "Stalingrad is not a fortress," said one wounded Nazi. "It's an open battlefield. What prevented us getting there was not forts, but Russians."

The most shattering raid yet delivered on Kiel by the Royal Air Force wiped out defences in one hour's attack. Flares were dropped in hundreds, lighting up U-boat harbor docks and most of the town. Before the bombers left great fires were blazing to the sky and visible for scores of miles. This was the seventieth Royal Air Force raid on Kiel, which as a submarine base is second only to Hamburg.

Nazis in France have given sixteen days' grace to the Vichy Government to produce 150,000 Frenchmen to make munitions for Germany in German factories. Very few workers have volunteered so far. By postponing compulsion, the Germans show they fear further exasperation of the French people and perhaps a political crisis. Laval, says the diplomatic correspondent of The Times, dragged the latest concession out of the Nazis. His propaganda agents are busily explaining that there is no difference between French workers making railway locomotives in Germany than in making them in France, as they have been doing for the last two years. A great French chemical combine associated with the German dye trust has made huge profits out of its help for Hitler. French aluminum companies have also done well out of war production for their country's foes. Many subsidiary French electro-chemical companies have been able largely to increase profits and capital as a result of their "collaboration" with Germany.

Laval has evidently agreed to the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine by Hitler, as he says it need no longer be the cause of discord between two countries.

POPPIES FOR REMEMBRANCE

The Remembrance Day committee sales office, now open at 916 Government Street (telephone Beacon 2823), announces the arrival of the first shipment of poppies and wreaths from the Red Cross Workshop in this city. The display consists of a complete assortment of poppies, single, in groups, and in tastefully constructed wreaths suitable for clubs, associations or business firms.

These poppies and wreaths are made in the Red Cross Workshop here by disabled veterans of former wars. Citizens are asked to help the Remembrance Day committee to assist the men who fought for them in 1914-18.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Dorothy had been praying each evening at bedtime for a baby sister. The other day her mother, while reading the paper, exclaimed: "I see Mrs. Smith has a little daughter."

"How do you know that, mamma?" Dorothy inquired.

"It says so in the paper, dear."

"Read it to me."

Her mother read: "Born on July 2, to Mr. and Mrs. —— Smith, a daughter."

Dorothy thought a moment and then said: "I know what I'm going to do. I'm going to stop praying and begin advertising."

Y.P.S. News

ST. JOHN'S

On Tuesday night, St. John's A.Y.P.A. was shown delightful movies by Mary Wilson. News, thrills and colored reels of a trip through Canada interested the audience very much. The president, Joan Brice expressed her appreciation for the evening's entertainment. Later in the evening refreshments were served. The meeting adjourned to the church for a short service conducted by Rev. G. Biddle.

FIRST UNITED

A meeting of the First United Young People's Union was opened on Tuesday evening with the president, Margaret Walker, in the chair. An interesting report was given by her of the British Columbia Conference Union convention, which was held at Chilliwack over the Thanksgiving week-end, followed by the singing of several favorite songs. "Foreign Missions" was the subject under consideration for the remaining part of the programme, conducted by Misses Jean Adams and Peggy Pepper. A word-picture of China was read, followed by a tale of Christian endeavor in the war-torn China of today. Miss Jean Adams sang "My Task," and the meeting adjourned with the Mizpah Benediction. Next week's meeting will be under the direction of the culture group. A Hallowe'en social is being planned for Tuesday, October 27, in connection with which a further announcement will be made later.

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN

On Sunday at 9 o'clock, following the evening service, another fellowship hour will be held by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Y.P.S. To this gathering men and women of His Majesty's forces and all young people are most cordially invited. On Monday at 8 o'clock the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Y.P.S. will take place. This is an important meeting, as reports from the third annual Y.P.S. convention will be brought forward and many interesting points discussed. A good attendance of members is requested, and all young people will be made welcome.

Shower for Bride

Miss Phyllis Hobbs was hostess at her home last evening at a kitchen shower in honor of Mrs. Howard Gibson, the former Joy Masters. The useful gifts were presented to the guest of honor in a beribboned dish-pan topped by a corsage bouquet of pink carnations. The invited guests included Mrs. A. Masters, Mrs. Donald Bain, Mrs. S. M. Hobbs, Misses Dorrie Wright, Ruby Webster, Freda Green, Frances Clarke, Dorothy Day, Hilda Fairhurst, Freda Carter, Phyllis Mugford, Muriel Zala and Ann Andrews.

Honor Brides-Elect

In honor of Miss Mora Gay, whose marriage to Pte. Roy McMinn will take place this week, Miss Marjorie White entertained at the home of her parents, 424 Moss Street, at a miscellaneous shower on Tuesday evening. On arrival the bride-to-be and her mother were presented with corsage bouquets of pink chrysanthemums. The many beautiful gifts were hidden in a box decorated in shades of pink. During the evening games were played. The invited guests included: Mrs. H. Ensor, Mrs. D. Gay, Mrs. A. MacDonald, Mrs. A. White, Mrs. P. Strong, Mrs. C. Clague, Mrs. N. E. Impett, Mrs. A. M. Perrins, Misses F. and O. Paterson, Peggy Lowe, Muriel Malcolm, Eileen Walker, Andrea MacDonald, Jane Clague, and Grace and Jean Adams.

CHAPTER XLV

Perhaps Guy or Amy would have called to Marcia, but she got into her car so quickly. Then Dr. Ames loomed out of the shadows and because Marcia had behaved so queerly Amy was so confused that she barely stuttered a greeting. Even that was wasted for Dr. Ames gave the two standing there in the darkness outside the Eckert door a quick penetrating glance [illegible] tered the house ahead of them, holding the door open with a sort of grudging courtesy.

Mama Eckert exclaimed when she saw Amy. "Why child, your shoes are soaked. And so are your stockings."

Amy looked down then at her sodden little high-heeled pumps and the wet length of chiffon stockings.

And Mama Eckert went on with her good natured solicitous scolding. "Why you must have been walking in the snow for an hour anyway."

"Oh, not that long," Amy defended herself.

"Yes, it was, almost," Mama Eckert insisted. "Marcia came in about 5 o'clock. She said you'd asked her to let you out half a mile from the house. She said you told her you didn't feel well and you wanted to walk. You crazy child! You've been out all that time!"

"I'll go up and change right away," Amy promised her. She did feel weak and empty-headed, but she didn't believe the walk had anything to do with that.

Amy tried to write to Paul that night. She pulled a chair up to the desk in his room—a little old-fashioned desk, ink stained and scratched with notches cut in it with a knife. Searching for a blotter, she opened the single drawer. She found a big torn one scribbled over with schoolboy cartoons and telephone numbers and initials.

In one corner was a drawing of two lop-sided hearts fastened together with an arrow. On one was written "Paul Bevan" and on the other "Normalee Black." Her heart seemed to turn over. Then she laughed at herself. The sprawling handwriting was only third or fourth grade. She remembered how she'd been in love in the third grade—with a boy with rosy cheeks and curly hair and no chin. She couldn't remember his name. Probably Paul wouldn't remember Normalee Black.

She didn't mean to be spying into Paul's boyhood. She loved to think about it though and so she examined the litter in that drawer, the tops and broken jack-knife and iron bolts and piece of fishing tackle. There was a torn valentine—lace paper and a ribbon bow and neat delicate little handwriting, "I love you, Paul. B.R.W." Had Paul been pursued by girls all his life?

She closed the drawer and began her letter. "Dear Paul——" She was going to be funny about the valentine and the hearts, but the words wouldn't come. Instead she thought of Marcia standing enrapt before the style-show bride. Then she thought of what Guy had said about his having loved one of the Bevans, too—about a love that burned and hurt and died of its own fire. But Paul couldn't help it that every woman who saw him wanted him.

She tried again to think of a first sentence for her letter but her head buzzed and her eyes smarted. She wrote, "I feel all queer and confused. I can't seem to think."

That would never do—not for her first letter to Paul. She corked the ink bottle and put her pen aside and crawled into bed.

When she awoke in the morning her head ached so that she couldn't bear the thought of brushing her hair. And she was sneezing often.

Mama Eckert found her huddled in a miserable little heap like a sick child along about 10 o'clock and she brought her scalding hot coffee and a cinnamon roll with sugar on it that Amy regarded with ill-concealed loathing.

When they heard Dr. Ames' hearty laugh downstairs Mama Eckert called to him to come up. He entered the room buoyantly, seeming to bring health and strength with him.

He chuckled Mama Eckert impudently under her two chins and inquired, "Well, how's my girl friend today?"

He did not seem to see Amy at all.

"I'm all right," Mama Eckert told him. "But Amy's down with grippe."

"I'll look at her," he said curtly.

But he did not look at Amy. That is, he did not meet her eyes. He came over and stuck a thermometer into her mouth and chatted with Mama Eckert while Amy held it under her tongue. When Amy inquired timidly about her temperature he said to Mama Eckert, "A hundred and four." He listened to her breathing. Then he said, "Flu. You'd better call in a doctor. I don't handle this sort of thing."

He went downstairs and she could hear him laughing and joking with Nurse Bolton and Daphne. But not once again did he come near her.

A letter from Paul came that morning.

"Darling—why don't you write me? I've been watching the mails—so impatient to hear from you that I stay here at the hotel waiting. It's an awful feeling—waiting for a letter, wondering what has happened, thinking something may have gone wrong. Wondering if you still love me—which of course is silly. You couldn't have stopped loving me in so short a time. But time seems long now—waiting to go to camp, waiting to hear from you. Write me the instant you get this."

"All of my love"—Paul.

She wanted to answer. She sat up in bed, but blackness swooped over her and she lay back exhausted. It was the same the next day—and the next. Then she managed to pull herself to the desk and found the letter she had started the night before she was taken sick.

Teacher Startled By Little Turtle

REDMOND, Ore., Oct. 15 (AP).—Last Summer Mrs. Jessie Munger, school teacher at Grizzly, Jefferson County, Ore., picked up a turtle egg near Sutherlin, Ore. She put it on her desk as a decoration. Today before the startled eyes of teacher and pupils it hatched—and a little turtle wobbled out.

FEAR AGENT DROWNED

NELSON, Oct. 15 (CP).—Fear was expressed tonight that J. M. Gordon, district freight agent here, had drowned while on a fishing trip to Kootenay Lake. A search of the lake was begun when Gordon failed to return Wednesday night as expected, but no trace of the missing man or his boat have been found.

HOMES COLDER THIS WINTER

"Heat Comfort" in Britain Will Not Be as Low as On Continent

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP).—British households will be a little duller and draughtier this Winter due to fuel economies, but nobody is likely to freeze in Britain's damp and chilly climate.

"Even if fuel is rationed there will be only a 20 per cent reduction in 'heat comfort' compared with pre-war days," said an official of the Department of Economic Warfare.

"For the rest of Europe, however, the prospect is bleak. The best Germany can hope for will not be more than two-thirds peacetime comfort. In other Continental countries the consumption of fuel permitted will be from half last year's consumption to none at all."

COAL POSITION CRITICAL

Although officials admit that Britain's coal position is critical, there's no immediate indication that a much-mooted rationing scheme, which Labor members of Parliament consider necessary, will be introduced.

Just when people were thinking about switching on electric heaters and heaping coal on the living-room fire the Fuel Ministry banned central heating in flats and hotels until November. Instead, they advised people to don woolies and heavier clothing earlier than usual.

This suggestion was directed especially to women—accustomed to going about in scanty underclothes and frilly dresses—by Sir Leonard Hill, eminent physiologist. His "prescription" for the save-fuel Winter, was, in a nutshell, "Open your windows and wear more clothes."

K.R. & O.

The sergeant was asking recruits why walnut is used for the butt of a rifle.

"Because it has more resistance," volunteered one man.

"Wrong!"

"Because it is more elastic."

"Wrong."

"Perhaps it's because it looks nicer than any other kind," said another, timidly.

"Don't be an ass," snapped the sergeant, "It's simply because it is laid down in the regulations."

LOAN SUCCESS IS PREDICTED

J. W. Spencer, Chairman, Is Confident Island Division Will Top Objective

While the Third Victory Loan quota for the Vancouver Island Division has been set at nearly $3,000,000 over the last objective, J. W. Spencer, chairman, is confident that [illegible]

"Our people realize now more than ever that the war cannot be won by the services alone, and that every one of us must be prepared to make the same sacrifices that are asked of the men in arms, and which are being made by our allies," he said.

"The time has come when to discuss the war from ordinary, comfortable living is a shameful thing, and public realization of this fact and their resentment of activities which do not contribute directly to the war effort is most encouraging to those who are putting all their efforts behind the Third Victory Loan drive."

Associated with Mr. Spencer, of the Vancouver Island Division executive, as voluntary workers are: F. E. Winslow, A. T. Goward, Senator G. H. Barnard and G. Walton as vice-chairmen, Duncan MacBride and Murray Martindale are chairman and vice-chairman of the public relations committee. Behind these men, however, are several hundred workers in every community who have been organized over the past few weeks to reduce the canvass to simple essentials and make it possible for everyone to subscribe directly to the campaign.

The campaign will open officially on Monday and will be concluded on November 7.

NOTHING TO STOP IT

After talking to a bunch of new recruits about their duties as soldiers, the officer asked one:

"Suppose you were advancing through a hail of shrapnel and your left ear was shot off, what would you do?"

"Keep on advancing, sir," was the stolid reply.

"That's the spirit," said the officer approvingly. "And suppose that after advancing another fifty yards, your right ear was shot off?"

"Stop, sir."

"Stop? What do you mean, man?"

"Me blinking tin 'at would be down over me eyes, sir."

LISTEN TO A REAL CANADIAN!

"I'm making pretty fair wages right now. But as a citizen of Canada, I recognize that I've got definite obligations. I've got a duty I owe to the boys overseas. They've got to have more guns and tanks and planes. That means I've got to lend just as much as I can so that my country can buy its fighting men everything they need for Victory.

"Sure—I know I'm paying more taxes. But my taxes—and all the other fellow's taxes—aren't enough to do the job. My wife and I have talked it over—we're willing to stop buying the things we can get along without—we're glad to tighten our belts—we're proud to save money for our country."

It's a great spirit—a fighting spirit! You wouldn't expect a real Canadian to say anything else. And when Victory Bonds are offered for sale again, Canadians will once more reach—and exceed—their country's quota.

Here is a definite method which will make it simpler for you. Authorize your employer to set aside a regular sum from each pay envelope to buy Victory Bonds. The repayment of every dollar you invest in Victory Bonds, plus a fair rate of interest is guaranteed by Canada.

RALSTON SEES ROUGH-RIDERS

Sansom's Troops in Armoured Division Cheer Defence Minister

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 15 (CP).—Colonel J. L. Ralston, Canada's Defence Minister, whose visit to Britain is approaching its [illegible] Sansom's Rough Riders—well-drilled troops who form one of Canada's armored divisions.

The minister saw the division's giant Churchill tanks lumbering in battle formation across Southern England's green downs and inspected a brigade post.

The men raised their black berets high and cheered him after he had watched them parade.

Obviously impressed by what he termed their "steadiness," Colonel Ralston told the Rough Riders: "You are young, you are strong, you are well trained and well turned out. I guess I had better not say any more or you will think too much of yourselves."

SEES DIEPPE TANK

The minister was shown a tank which was taken to Dieppe but was unable to land. He drove in a Jeep to a hilltop to inspect a regiment of Churchills drawn up in review order before they rolled across the broad downs. He then taveled to a series of brigade parades as impressive as any he has seen during almost two weeks he has spent with the Canadian army.

Colonel Ralton recalled in a brief address that two years ago the armored division was "only a dream," now fulfilled in its formation and "now training, working and almost praying for the time to get down to its job."

The minister assured the men of his "unshakeable determination" to see that they receieve every support they require.

Discussing morale both among the troops overseas and the people at home, he said: "We have got to see that we have the morale to destroy Germany.

"We have got to see that we are doing our level best and utmost to guarantee that things wil turn out right," he added. "I get a little worried when I hear people talking about what is going to happen after the war.

"This thing is really just beginning. We have just succeeded in not losing this war. Now we have got to start winning. The battles are yet to be fought."

WANT SCHOOL FOR FIRE HALL

Would Dismantle Old Nanaimo Building—To Observe Navy Week

NANAIMO, Oct. 15. — Nanaimo School Board has under consideration a request from Harewood voluntary fire brigade for permission to dismantle the old Fairview school to use the lumber to build a fire hall in Harewood district.

Plans to observe the annual Navy Week in local schools are very advanced, J. B. Litch, school supervisor, reported.

Dr. G. F. Amyot, of the Department of Health, gave approval to a suggestion of the local board that pupils should be given a physical examination before entering the school gymnasium.

Social activities functioning in local schools include recently-organized group of boys to collect salvage for the Red Cross; regular collections of War Savings Stamps, which raised $69 in September; library service club which repairs books and make scrapbooks for the military hospital.

Nanaimo students, by a vote, showed their preference for air cadet training, which is expected to be taken with regular cadet training.

Chairman J. Barbsy was congratulated by the board and teaching staff on his election as president of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association.

HUGE VALUE IN WAR CONTRACTS

Department of Munitions and Supply Sets Figure Above $5,500,000,000

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP). — The Munitions and Supply Department announced today that the total value of contracts awarded and commitments made by the department of Canadian, United Kingdom and other account has exceeded the $5,500,000,000 mark.

Preliminary figures show that the grand total for the period from July 14, 1939, to September 30 last, was $5,496,512,002, said a department statement. It added that this figure would be increased "by hundreds of millions of dollars by the inclusion of letters of intention and unvalued acceptances of tender."

The statement gave a breakdown of contracts placed on Canadian account, and those on United Kingdom account.

It said contracts placed on Canadian account, including British Commonwealth Air Training Plan construction, a portion of which is chargeable to other Empire countries, totaled $2,882,775,034.

The aggregate of orders placed on United iKngdom account, together with United Kingdom commitments for plants and plant extensions and orders for the output of some plants, amounted to $2,240,577,316, an estimated figure which includes the United Kingdom's share in joint projects. Contracts awarded on other account totaled $373,159,652.

Anglican Church Official to Visit Diocesan Boards

Rev. Canon R. A. Hiltz, D.D., of Toronto, general secretary of the General Board of Religious Education for the Church of England in Canada, will begin a three-day visit to Victoria at 10:15 a.m. today when he will meet with the local diocesan board of religious education at St. John's Church.

At 3 p.m. he will address a meeting of the women's auxiliary of the diocesan board at St. Mary's Church, and at 8 p.m. will meet with the executive of the diocesan Sunday school teachers' executive. On Sunday he will preach for Rev. George Biddle at St. John's Church. No plans have been made for tomorrow.

Canon Hiltz has already held conferences in Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Vancouver, and will visit Edmonton and Saskatoon before returning to Toronto. His meetings have been with theological students, deanery gatherings, the clergy, and workers in the religious education field.

Copper Wire goes to War

Vast quantities of copper wire are needed for the war effort of the United Nations. The wire goes into aeroplanes, ships, tanks, and innumerable other things Copper is also required for many other purposes than wire. There is not enough copper to go around, and that is why the Government severely restricts the use of wire in the telephone business.

Manufacturers that might have made the switchboards and automatic equipment needed to meet the telephone demands in our territory are not permitted to do so because the materials, personnel and machines are needed to fill war orders. So we must get along largely with what we have.

These are reasons why many people who want telephone service are now unable to get it.

BRITISH COLUMBIA TELEPHONE COMPANY

WHERE EVEN CAMELS NEVER TROD!

—"In a cruel, fantastic land where you feel you are in another world, resembling the mountains of the moon"

by RICHARD D. McMILLAN
British United Press Correspondent in the Middle East.

"Dick" McMillan who has served as war correspondent for BUP on many fronts. He has earned the reputation of being one of the most accurate and prophetic reporters of the war.

With the Eighth British Army in the Libyan Desert (By Cable)—Lusting for power over all the southern valley of the Nile and the desert beyond, Persian King Cambyses once sent an army to extend his sway over the Siwa Oasis. His army never was seen again. It was swallowed up in the desert sands without trace.

In the campaign of 1917 against Senussi tribesmen, a British patrol followed in the footsteps of King Cambyses' warriors. But its cars were ill-equipped to conquer the uncharted sands and broke down. The men of the gallant patrol died of thirst.

Now, after two years of war, the British Eighth army not only has mastered the desert, but it has turned forbidding wastes into a network of highways—byways as familiar to the desert troops as a London bus route. The men who mapped the desert had the heart of Empire in mind, and names like Knightsbridge appear on remote signposts where British history is being relived.

Many miracles of the desert are now accepted as commonplace, but one miracle still stands out. I've travelled 50,000 miles over the desert and I have marvelled at the stamina of our motor transports. I've ridden a Canadian-built Chevrolet and seen it take the terrific beating only the desert can give.

I would like to see the Canadian workers who built her. I would like them to see how this car could take it—in the dash out of Tobruk, shells and bombs bursting all around, and sprayed with machine gun bullets as she sped along, out into Cyrenaica and to Mekili, and up and down the Gazala line. Every inch of the way you hit a boulder or a wheel dropped into a drift of sand. She was waiting outside Bir Hakeim where we watched Rommel's Africa Corps hammering against a desert fort. She passed through Libyan wire entanglements beyond the Omars where even camels never trod—down south where the sun really gets molten and you spend half your time digging out of the sands and the other half blowing your breath on the radiator, the only air you can find in this burning cauldron.

I have watched convoys of Canadian-built trucks rumbling across the desert under the Stuka dive-bombers and the rain of shells from long range German artillery, but still carrying forward the sinews of war to the troops in the front line.

The Libyan dust makes you look like a vaudeville comedian and makes you feel—well you want to lie down under the lash of a sandstorm and die—but those drivers take a gulp of tepid water, fight on, and their trusty trucks never let them down.

On an Axis street near El Adem, I have watched a convoy of tank transporters negotiate a stiff escarpment. A desert Khamseen was blowing, making the desert like a London blackout. I called it a day, but not those lads. They ploughed through the packed dust and crawled up the escarpment, hauling General Grants and General Lees, like steel mastodons, to the front.

It is hard going in the desert, but many times a truck got me there. One even got me there along the Qattara depression where you feel you are in another world, resembling the mountains of the moon. It's the ideal desert vehicle.

The Eighth Army needs guns and tanks and planes, but it also needs the right kind of vehicles. So workers of Canada, if you have more to spare, send them over! Send them soon! Then maybe we'll get to Tripoli and drive down the Victory road—through Italy.

"I would like to see the Canadian workers who built these trucks. I would like them to see how these cars can take it. The Eighth Army needs guns and tanks and planes, but it also needs the right kind of vehicles. So, workers of Canada, if you have more to spare send them over! Send them over soon! Then maybe we'll get to Tripoli and drive down the Victory Road—through Italy!" . . . McMillan.

This direct cable from the famous British United Press correspondent with the Eighth British Army in Libya explains why our fighting men all around the world are clamouring for vehicles built in Canada. Modern military strategy demands their use in overpowering numbers, regardless of transport conditions in the bad lands of every continent. Thousands of these vehicles, we are proud to say, are built in the plants and shops of General Motors of Canada, where men and women stand devotedly to their tasks, for . . . VICTORY IS THEIR BUSINESS!

FLYERS SAFE AFTER CRASH

Three Royal Air Force Men Reach Saskatchewan Natural Resources Cabin

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Oct. 15 (CP)—Tired and hungry, three flyers from No. 35 Service Flying Training School of the Royal Air Force at North Battleford today were reported safe and well after crash-landing in the northern bush country.

Word that the three—P.O. Tomalin, L.A.C. Tutty and L.A.C. Parsons—were safe was flashed to officials of the school today by Fred Redhead, field officer of the Department of Natural Resources at Delaronde Lake, about 120 air miles northeast of North Battleford, after the men walked into his headquarters.

One of the men was reported to have suffered a cracked rib when the machine turned over while landing in a slough.

The men plodded through the bush country fifty miles to Redhead's cabin where they arrived yesterday afternoon. They had been missing since taking off from the North Battleford field Saturday afternoon.

The trio was given food by Redhead shortly after their arrival and the field officer then sent out word of their safety over the radio communication system in his office.

Redhead will bring the three by canoe thirty-six miles to the south end of Delaronde Lake where a good road connects with the village of Big River. They will be flown from Big River by plane and are expected to arrive here tonight.

SAFE AND WELL

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask., Oct. 16 (CP)—Royal Air Force officials said today three flyers missing since Saturday night from No. 35 Service Flying Training School were safe and well after a three-day journey on foot through the northern bush country following a forced landing in the marshes at Delaronde Lake.

The trio, P.O. Tomalin, L.A.C. Tutty and L.A.C. Parsons, hiked fifty miles overland to Big River where they were given food and shelter and where they are now resting. One of them is believed to have suffered a cracked rib in the landing but his companions were unhurt.

Reduce Rates on Cargo Insurance In Pacific Area

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP)—The Institute of London Underwriters announced today a reduction in cargo war risk insurance rates between the Americas and Australasia.

The rate between Australia and North, Central or South America (Atlantic, Pacific or Gulf ports) via the Panama Canal or Pacific Ocean, excluding Pacific ports via the Pacific, was reduced from 15 to 12.5 per cent.

The corresponding rate for New Zealand and the Pacific islands was cut from 15 to 11.5 per cent.

The rate for Pacific ports via the Pacific to or from Australia remains at 7.5 per cent, but for New Zealand the rate is cut from 7.5 to 6.5 per cent.

SEVEN DIE IN CRASH

CHESTER, S.C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Seven men were killed in the crash of a United States army bomber in a field near here last night, officials announced today.

AIR SERVICE PLAYS PART

Trans-Canada Air Lines Is Doing Good Work in War Effort

WINNIPEG, Oct. 15.—New records in volume of air mail and express and the number of passengers carried by Trans-Canada Air Lines indicate something of the part that T.C.A. is playing in the nation's war effort, according to O. T. Larson, vice-president. Speaking at the annual conference of T.C.A. representatives, Thursday, he emphasized the importance of swift communication in forwarding the Allied cause. The object of the conference, which continues on Friday, is to assist the T.C.A. personnel in a proper understanding of their functions and responsibilities under war conditions. Traffic managers from all parts of Canada and from New York are attending and operations superintendents and flight personnel are taking part in the discussions.

W. S. Thompson, director of public relations for T.C.A. and the Canadian National Railways, Montreal, also addressed the meetings on Thursday. Other speakers on the agenda include R. F. George, operations manager; D. R. MacLaren, superintendent of passenger service; S. S. Stevens, superintendent of communications; J. T. Bain, superintendent of engineering and maintenance; W. J. Dalby, acting general traffic manager, and J. A. Wilson, director of air service, Department of Transport, Ottawa.

This year, Mr. Larson pointed out, air mail increased from 128,103 pounds in January to 208,617 in August. For the eight months, the total was 1,265,683 pounds, which was only 123,931 pounds less than the volume carried in the whole of 1941, and 169 tons more than the 1940 load.

Air express, increasing with each successive month, more than doubled itself in the period. It rose from 13,564 pounds in January to 38,835 pounds in August. For the eight months it totaled 179,992 pounds, more than three tons greater than in the whole of 1941 and an increase of more than thirty-seven tons over 1940.

The number of passengers carried during the first eight months of the current year was 66,674, as compared with 84,128 for the corresponding period of 1941.

CALGARY, Oct. 15 (CP).—Friends of Flt. Lt. Robert J. Warner of the R.A.F. said today that four days before he was killed in a midair plane collision over Airdrie, Alta., the young Englishman predicted: "I have an idea my time to 'buy it' is not far off." He was killed Monday.

R.C.A.F. Casualties

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force in its 396th casualty list of the war today reported three men killed on active service overseas, one missing and believed killed during overseas air operations, six missing after overseas air operations, and seven killed on active service in Canada.

The overseas section of the list also contained the names of one man who died of wounds suffered on active service, one who died from injuries suffered on active service, one who died from injuries suffered in a motor accident, one killed accidentally, five who are prisoners of war, six previously reported missing who now are for official purposes presumed dead, two dangerously injured on active service, and one dangerously ill. Besides the men killed on active service, the "Canada" section of the list reported that one man had died from natural causes and that one had been drowned accidentally. RECTAL SORENESS AND
PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Modern Pharmacy or Cunningham Drug Store, or any druggist, and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. (Advt.)

BUSINESS POSTPONED UNTIL NEXT MONDAY

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (CP).—Preliminary discussions were held today between Mr. Justice Richards, head of a commission which investigated conditions in West Coast shipyards this Summer, and shipyard operators and union representatives. But Mr. Justice Richards said that "No business will be transacted until Monday."

Actual conferences have been postponed in absence of some of the shipyard heads.

VESSEL CONFISCATED

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 15 (CP).—The purse seiner New Moon, owned by Nicholas Kuija, Bellingham fisherman, and valued at $30,000, was held under confiscation orders by Canadian authorities today after the fisherman had been found guilty by Magistrate H. G. Johnson, in District Court yesterday, of fishing in Canadian waters late in September. Kuija was also ordered to pay a $150 fine.

'FOREMAN'S MEMO BOOK'

In furthering its educational programme in an effort to train the supervisory forces employed in the shipyards under its control, Wartime Merchant Shipping, Limited, has instituted a number of innovations, not the least of which is the monthly distribution of a "Foreman's Memo Book," which contains, on pages not devoted to the book's main purposes, some sage advice pertaining to the duties of the ideal foreman.

It is the intention of Wartime Merchant Shipping, Limited, to place a copy of the book in the hands of every foreman working on merchant shipping vessels each month, the October edition having been sent out several weeks ago.

SCALDED TO DEATH

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15 (AP).—Three men were scalded to death by live steam today and a fourth was injured seriously in an accident at Bethlehem Shipyards. The men were moving a heavy piece of machinery when the load slipped and knocked against a pipe carrying steam under 600 pounds pressure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP).—The navy announced today that survivors of a medium-sized United States merchant ship sunk by submarine action in the Atlantic during August have now been landed at a United States East Coast port.

Glancing Over Sport

By JOE DELAHUNTY

THE DAY'S ROUNDUP

After the St. Louis Cardinals won the world's baseball championship General Manager Branch Rickey [illegible] we will soon be quitting the titleholders and join the Browns of the American League. The season which just closed was one of the best for St. Louis in the junior circuit, and mayor Rickey wants to have a change and bring the championship to another Missouri club . . . The biggest laugh of the week Bob Pastor laying claim to Joe Louis' heavyweight boxing crowns. If they give him the title, Promoter Mike Jacobs might as well fold up, for Bob is nothing more than a third rater at his best . . . Received two letters yesterday from chaps, who didn't have the courage to sign their names criticizing the publicity the newspapers have been giving Doug Peden, Muzz Patrick and Art Chapman. Well the writers of those letters don't know that Art tried to get into the air force a long time ago and Muzz has been in the United States Army for nearly two years. Doug Peden has had his eyes on a uniform for a long time. All I can say is the next time you fellows write letters at least sign your names to them . . . The New Westminster Columbian gave me quite a boost because I picked the Salmonbellies to bring back the Mann Cup from Toronto. If the sports editor of that sheet knew how many times I have been wrong he would have [illegible] back on the Easterners. However, the Salmon should have won that fourth game being three goals out in front at the end of the third quarter and then losing the decision by a lone tally . . . New York Rangers like most of the other clubs in the National Hockey League start training with a flock of regulars missing. Some of their best men have donned the uniform since the close of the last schedule.

ODDS AND ENDS

If Coach Ed Leahy of the 'Fighting Irish' at Notre Dame University wants a good backfield man just get in touch with Charlie Cramer. Despite his years Charlie floored a would-be gunman the other night in the club with a flying tackle that would make the best football coaches in the country smile. Using his head and moving with precision once the fellow said 'stick 'em up and give me all the Jough in the house.' Cramer a veteran police officer and detective before he retired from the force caught the troublesome visitor unawares as he had him on the floor before he knew what happened. If the invader figured he was going for a touched van he met up with the wrong fellow . . . The happiest mother in Victoria today is none other than Mrs. Harry Rose, mother of Hank Rose, one of the finest basketballers this Dominion has ever produced. Hank is now in Montreal and will be home shortly after being wounded in the famous raid on Dieppe. Yesterday he phoned his father from the East and was Pappy ever glad to hear his voice again! As a matter of fact the whole family was tickled for after all the former Dominion cage star was lucky to be alive after what he went through with thousands of other Canadians. Mrs. Rose will get with her when she sees Hank walk off the boat at the C.P.R. wharf within the next few days and will one may for once is the happiest mother in Victoria . . . Manager Jack McColl has a fast front line figured out for the rest of the soccer season in the local league. He has Charlie Bell at outside, Alvin Parks at inside, Alan Reside at centre, Neil Morgan at inside left and George Payne flanking him on the other outer lane . . . Talking about football I heard a discussion the other day about who has the hardest shot in the game around this part of the country. Mike said it was Parks, others stated it was Payne but the pro Bell. He takes a ball so fast that he nearly rents the net to pieces when he connects . . .

BASEBALL STORY

It was strange that the Yankees should pick up Roy Cullenbine to take the place of Tommy Henrich who joined the Coast Guard. Perhaps it was more than a coincidence that Cullenbine should don the uniform No. 7 which Henrich did. There is one outstanding feature of their careers which Cullenbine and Henrich have in common. Each picked up a bonus of $25,000 for signing after Judge Landis had declared them free agents. Cullenbine from Brooklyn, Henrich from the Yankees. Cullenbine was a big disappointment with the Dodgers a couple of seasons ago. He came to life in a big way with the Browns last season and batted .317 while during in close to 100 runs. With Washington this season he was only fair, although he did manage to get his share of extra-base hits. The Yankees were desperately in need of a right handed hitter for their outfield and Cullenbine has the speed and power to fill the bill.

KEN DIXON

BERT LARGE

These four men loomed large in the Dominion lacrosse finals in which a combined Mimico-Brampton squad represented the East against New Westminster Salmonbellies, champions of the Pacific Coast and conquerors of Lachine the Quebec winners. The finals, a best three in five series, was played in Toronto. Shown are stars of Mimico-Brampton, Kenny Dixon, shaft-shooting forward, Bert Large, midget goal keeping ace, who has a trick knee that needs bolstering, [illegible] and Mickey MacDonald and Jim Mullis. All are veterans of the gutted stick pastime. The Easterners won the series.

TORONTO, Oct. 15 (CP)—Need a job done? Are taking the dog for a walk, intercepting the mail, and it now a lot paper for the living-room, or scoring a touchdown at a crucial moment in a Rugby game? Then, Michigan SOS for Leaping seaman Spike Lambke. If Spike will don'tcha do it, eh?

Lambke, an Ordinary Seaman in the Royal Canadian Navy, is now in Rugby League Recreation Centre in Halifax. A quiet, unassuming lad, he spent his chores at the centre last week-end and dug out his leather boots and trotted out with Navy for the opening of the Halifax English Rugby League. Playing outside of the Navy line, Lambke was the fastest tackler on the field and put Navy backs in a scoring position more than once as the sailors beat Dartmouth Dockers 16-8. Next day, Navy Seconds tamed the powerful Navy Nex Eleven in the Canadian Football League and, as a result, the service team lost 18-0. Lambke fought his way through the Seconds' backfield, [illegible] and ran wild in the other game.

Ken Hartley, Herald [illegible] correspondent, writes from the Halifax scene of a week-end trip [illegible] after 10 years, at both of the [illegible] games, one in Canadian and the other English Rugby, that's something further. That's Spike.

INCIDENTALLY

The half-mile running champion of Canada's overseas army, Sgt. Tom Williams, of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, has returned to his Winnipeg home after three years in England.

Aircraft to Join in Victory Loan Show—Will Drop Prize Pamphlets

Dollars in War Savings Stamps will float from the sky tomorrow when the sweep of Royal Canadian Air Force bombers and fighters demonstrates a blitz in conjunction with the big Victory Loan parade of the forces. Showers of leaflets dropped in demonstration will contain 150 especially marked, which can be exchanged at the National War Loan Committee headquarters for stamp books. These have been subscribed as an additional contribution of the British American Paint Company.

Victoria for the first time will have the opportunity of seeing a flight of airwomen of the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division) on parade. They will march past to the R.C.A.F. Band with flights of airmen and two flights of Air Cadets.

WILL BE SPECTACULAR

The flying arrangements are being detailed by a senior air staff officer who promises that the operation will be spectacular, informative and instructional.

The march past which the parade marshal, Commander R. P. Ponder, R.C.N.V.R., declared will be a complete demonstration by the three services, will take place at 3 o'clock, moving from the assembly point at 2:30. The route, Hillside and Douglas to Belleville, thence over the Causeway and along Government, will be closed to ordinary traffic for the period, and as public transportation will be taxed those who plan to see the parade are advised to take up their positions as much before the starting time as possible.

Plans for the dedication of a commando dagger, taken from the actual issue and flown from England, are going forward and it is expected the ceremony will take place at Athletic Park on Sunday at 3 p.m. The programme will include prayers and hymns. Arion Club members, who will lead in singing, and the Garrison Band will be in attendance.

LARGE PUMPER TO BE SHIPPED HERE

A pumper capable of delivering 420 gallons of water per minute will be sent to A.R.P. authorities here in the near future, Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, provincial civilian protection officer, said here yesterday. He is expecting delivery from the East shortly, he said.

Inspector Moodie also said that following the visit to British Columbia of Captain E. A. Batt, of the London Fire Brigade and Roughy Haybrook, of the London Auxiliary Fire Service, an increased interest had been shown by young people in A.R.P., messenger and auxiliary fire services throughout the province.

FLT.-LIEUT. MICHAEL SYMONS

WHOSE death while serving overseas with the Royal Air Force was reported yesterday. Born in Victoria, Flt.-Lieut. Symons went to England at his own expense in September, 1938, and won his wings within six months after being accepted by the air force. He took part in the evacuation of Dunkerque, served as a ferry pilot in a plane pool, and was a veteran of the Battle of Britain. The son of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Symons, 1231 Victoria Avenue, he attended St. Michael's School, Brentwood and Victoria College. He was a well-known athlete and was prominent in Rugby, rowing and badminton. His widow lives in Wales.

City & District

Traffic Case—For disobeying the direction indicated by a traffic control, [illegible] was fined $5 yesterday in the city police court.

Building Permit—Eli Hume & Son secured a $1,000 city building permit yesterday to carry out alterations to a dwelling at 980 Joan Crescent. D. C. Frame is the architect.

Car Found—An automobile stolen from Albert Davies, 106 Medina Street, was found damaged in the 1200 block on Oscar Street early yesterday morning. It had been driven into a boulevard tree.

Fur Theft—Police are still searching for the thief who stole furs to the value of $345 from the Ritz Millinery Shop. The furs included a Canadian squirrel coat valued at $210 and a Chinese weasel coat valued at $135.

Burglars Busy—In making his rounds early yesterday morning Constable Henry Wilson found that the Palm Dairies, Ltd., at 930 North Park Street had been entered by forcing open a window. Safecrackers had smashed the dial off the office safe and decamped with $345 in cash.

New Ruling—Building permits for amounts in excess of $500 are being issued at the City Hall with a note stating they are granted subject to Government regulations concerning wartime construction, and the responsibility for securing licences rests upon the applicant when such licences are required.

Must Move Trailer—A person appearing in Saanich Police Court yesterday was given one week in which to move a trailer which was being used as a permanent residence. Such use is contrary to the Health Act. Two motorists were each fined $5, one for not having a driver's licence, and the other for ignoring a stop sign.

Serious Charge—William Gerald Brine was charged yesterday in the city police court with unlawfully demanding money from Charles Cremer on Monday, by menaces and with intent to steal. He was also charged with stealing two hams, a roast and two sides of bacon valued at $20.50 from the Vancouver Barge Transportation, Ltd., on September 14. Brine made no reply to either charge and was remanded until this morning.

Car Fire Hall—Members of A.R.P. District No. 5 will be allowed to use the Duchess Street fire hall, it was announced by Alderman Archie Wills following a meeting of fire wardens yesterday afternoon. It was decided to recommend to the City Council that A. G. Leason be made a permanent member of the fire department and that Joseph Raymond and Robert Taylor in future be known as deputy fire chiefs. Their present official rank is that of senior captain.

Metal Reclamation—Alderman B. J. Gadsden, chairman of the City Council business and trade committee, stated yesterday chemists of the Provincial Department of Mines and Victoria Machinery Depot Co., Ltd., had promised to co-operate in experiments to obtain tin, steel and solder from food containers and milk tins by means of both acid and heat treatment. The alderman said he had also written to Washington, D.C., and Berkeley, Cal., for information on metal reclamation.

Appeal Dismissed—In County Court yesterday Judge H. H. Shandley dismissed an appeal of Mrs. Grace Ritter against a police court conviction and fine of $35 for driving in a manner dangerous to the public along Pandora Avenue on April 25. At that time her driver's licence was also suspended for six months. In dismissing the appeal, Judge Shandley suspended Mrs. Ritter's driver's licence for twelve months. Claude L. Harrison appeared for the Crown, and Patrick J. Sinnott represented the appellant.

Assize Court Jury Acquits Local Shipyard Worker On Theft Charge

William J. Brinkman, charged in the Fall Assize Court on Wednesday with the theft of a wallet containing $90, was acquitted yesterday.

The charge was made following information that Brinkman on July 18 had allegedly picked up a wallet belonging to Arthur C. Willoughby while the two men were at work at Yarrows No. 2 shipyard.

Principal Crown witness yesterday was William J. Bennett, rivet tester at Yarrows, Ltd., who said that on July 18, shortly after 4 p.m., he saw the accused, working on the deck of a ship, pick up a black object which resembled a wallet.

On taking the witness stand, Brinkman flatly denied having picked up a wallet, saying that he might have picked a piece of rubbish from the deck.

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith presided and J. B. Clearihue, K.C., appeared for the Crown. Brinkman was represented by Stuart Henderson.

Jurymen were Lee Hallberg, foreman; E. Emsley, H. F. Jarvis, J. H. McManus, I. R. Malcolm, T. Alexander, J. Hall, A. T. Reynolds, D. G. Oldham, E. B. Nelson, A. Quail and W. T. Fee.

CHARGES PLAN TO RULE PRESS

Criticizes U.S. Government's Suit Against Associated Press

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 15 (AP).—Major James E. Crown, editor of The New Orleans States, tonight called the Government's recently filed anti-monopoly suit against The Associated Press a thinly disguised part of secret plans to restrict freedom of the press in the nation.

"Recently in this country," said Crown in an address prepared for a dinner meeting of the Southwestern Journalism Congress, "the freedom of the press has been threatened, although those behind this movement have tried to cloak their plans in secrecy and in the thinly disguised suit against The Associated Press.

"The Government has instituted suit, declaring this great newsgathering organization is a monopoly, and that those who have organized it and operate it have no property rights in the news they gather. One of the claims of the suit is that The Associated Press should become a common carrier, and everyone knows what the Government can do to control a common carrier.

"They are attempting to place your newspaper in the same category as a railroad, telephone or telegraph company, barge or ship line.

THEORY IMPLIES CONTROL

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan has attacked the suit. He said: 'The theory that newspapers are common carriers must imply they are subject to total Government control. There could not possibly be a free press in America under such circumstances. I charge no such intention in the present suit against The Associated Press, but if I were an ambitious dictator seeking to blackout my newspaper critics, I would certainly think that this common carrier formula was a perfect anaesthetic. I could use it to streamline journalism completely to my own design'."

Crown then declared that France fell when its press became corrupt and dominated by politicians, and that Hitler and Mussolini first killed the press on their march to dictatorship.

"It's a sad day for any country when its newspapers are controlled by political dictators," he said.

"I say tell the people the truth, tell them what is going on, tell them of the tragedies as well as the achievements of the world—and that goes for our part in the war—and the people will keep this country free and strong."

BRITONS ENJOY BETTER HEALTH

No Evidence of Excessive Mental or Physical Fatigue Because of War

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 15 (CP).—There's nothing wrong with the health or physique of Britain's toiling inhabitants, battling all-out to stock this fortress Britain and succeeding magnificently the strains of war.

That's the consensus of Ministry of Health officials and a host of observers who traveled throughout the country keeping a watchful eye on men, women and children at work and at home. Long working hours, curtailed rations and mental and physical hazards engendered by war haven't seriously affected the nation's robust make-up.

After three years of hard labor and heavy bombing a shadow of fatigue darkens the normally rubicund features of the people. This has been noticed by visitors from Canada and the United States, but has not worried health officials whose job is to nip any signs of a breakdown in health.

"No evidence of excessive fatigue, either mental or physical, has been noticed among people generally, beyond the fatigue which must be prevalent in all countries as a result of emotional strain of war," said a Ministry of Health spokesman.

"It is a fact that most people are working harder than they did in peacetime and a certain number are benefiting from this as they have less time to consider themselves or real or imaginary ailments. Less unemployment, security of occupation and a carefully balanced diet through rationing has helped maintain the nation's health."

CAUSE FOR GRATITUDE

Ernest Brown, Minister of Health, sketching the people's welfare, told the House of Commons that the general position gave cause for "sober gratitude," but added there were certain points, however, which needed careful attention.

He didn't specify diseases needing attention, but it was believed he was referring to an increase in tuberculosis and cerebro-spinal meningitis, diseases which present special problems during war.

Available statistics show that a total of 1,500 cases of tuberculosis in 1939 rose to nearly 13,000 in 1940 and dropped to 11,000 in 1941. In the first six months of the current year there were 4,000 cases compared with 8,000 and 7,000 in the corresponding periods of 1940 and 1941, respectively.

A similar situation exists with regard to the battle against venereal diseases, said the Ministry of Health but except for cerebro-spinal meningitis figures for other infectious diseases covering the first seven months of 1942 show a considerable decrease over the corresponding period of 1939. There were no cases of typhoid or para-typhoid during 1941 and so far this year cases have been lower than in 1939.

There were 4,766 cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis during the first seven months of this year, compared with 1,034 for the same period in 1939. This total, however, is lower than the comparative periods in 1940 and 1941, when there were 10,024 and 8,825 cases respectively.

DEATH RATE

Sir Jameson Wilson, chief medical officer to the Ministry of Health, giving reassuring figures about the incidence of disease, said that provisional figures showed that the death rate for the June quarter this year would be the lowest for any June quarter except June 1927, 1930 and 1933, and that the mortality rate would be the lowest for any year except 1940.

Regarding a threatened outbreak of smallpox earlier this year, he said Britain has been "very fortunate" in that there were only forty-one cases and eight deaths. He added that the smallpox was a virulent Eastern type and complimented officials on the way in which the outbreak was handled.

Meanwhile, Prof. V. P. Sydenstricker, of Georgia University, conducting an investigation into the nutrition situation at the request of the ministry, has concluded that the people are not suffering seriously from malnutrition, and said he was impressed by the "general appearance of well-being and good spirits."

"I see no reason for trouble developing if the foods available are fully utilized," he continued. "The combination of oatmeal and milk is almost perfect, and even though the importation of foods should fall off considerably, I think there is enough to get by on without any threat to health."

HORSE MEAT AS FOOD APPROVED

Professor MacEwan Says No Reason Against It Except Whims

SASKATOON, Oct. 15 (CP).—Apart from "some unjustifiable whims," there was no reason why horse meat should not be eaten today, when a meat shortage was a national problem and threatening to interfere with industrial efficiency, Prof. J. W. G. MacEwan, of the Animal Husbandry Department at the University of Saskatchewan, said today in connection with the meat situation in Canada. Horses were strictly vegetarian in diet and were healthy, he added, and they had constituted an important part of the diet in other parts of the world.

A good deal has been heard lately about Canada's meat shortage, Professor MacEwan continued. Actually this country was producing more meat today than at any time in its history, but the greatly stimulated demand had made the supply inadequate.

Among the many advantages which might be gained by making horse meat available was a meat supply for the workers who needed it. It would assist the ranchers who had had difficulty in marketing such stock; it would relieve the range pastures and in some cases make place for more sheep and cattle, and, finally, it might help to regain the American market by releasing beef cattle for export, Professor MacEwan concluded.

THINK PEACE COMING SOON

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP).—Most Frenchmen think the war will end next Spring because of Allied bombings and await only an opportunity for revolt, two Belgian ministers August-Edmond de Schryver and Auguste Balthazar, said in an interview tonight.

The two officials of the prewar Brussels Government escaped from "enforced residence" near Vichy last July to England whence they came to the United States as guests of the Belgian ambassador.

"The French are impressed by the great flights of bombers over their country and have faith in the American war effort," Balthazar said. "Because of the frequency of the massed flights and because of their confidence in your country most Frenchmen think the war will end after this Winter."

He said food shortages are particularly severe in Belgium and unoccupied France adding that occupied France is somewhat better off because of its farms.

MAN REPORTED BURIED LIVES

HAMILTON, O., Oct. 15 (AP).—It was not Frank Hall who was buried with a military honors in St. Louis last month.

So, today his name was returned to the list-of-the-living by fellow-members of the Hamilton Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars.

It happened this way, according to William Sims, Post quartermaster:

Last August, Sims received a letter from Hall in St. Louis requesting a loan; explaining he had been robbed of cash, his social security card, and first Great War army discharge papers.

Later, Sims was notified by a St. Louis undertaker that Hall was dead. Burial was there; the Hamilton V.F.W. sent flowers, and sixty-seven St. Louis veterans attended the rites.

A few days ago, however, Sims received a letter from Hall enclosing payment on the loan, plus dues for next year.

"Evidently," said Sims, "the chap who died was the man who robbed Hall. The social security card and discharge papers were taken as 'proof' of his identity."

JUST FIFTH COLUMNISTS

CAPETOWN (CP).—Rumor that the South African Army P.O. would not dispatch Christmas parcels to "Springboks" in Libya was scotched by the Minister of Posts as "mischievous fifth column propaganda."

COURT HALTS UNION FINES

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP).—Judge George E. Holt today permanently restrained a labor union from punishing its members for disregarding a union order to use brushes in painting 137 buildings on an important army base.

Army officials asked that the work be speeded up by use of spray machines. Twenty union painters agreed when V. J. Hoecherl, the contractor, promised to protect them from disciplinary action by the union. Miami Local 365 Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, which threatened to fine them $500 a day.

S. E. Thatcher, of Washington, an attorney on the staff of Joseph H. Padway, general counsel for the American Federation of Labor, told the hearing that the injunction would mark the first time in history that a court "had interfered with the internal workings of a union." He said the matter would be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

MODERN

In the middle of the stream of traffic the baby car went on strike. After fiddling about under the bonnet the owner started cranking up, all hot and bothered.

Viciously he turned the starting-handle round and round. Still nothing happened.

At last the patience of the next driver in line—a lorryman—gave out.

"'Ere, guv'nor," he shouted, "why don't you buy one of those eight-day ones?"

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

"THE THICKER THE HAY, THE EASIER MOWED"

Fifteen hundred years ago, Alaric the Goth went after Rome.

Rome—bombastic, imperious, overpowering—was rotted by conceit, lust for power, delusions of invincibility.

From the very beginning Alaric was not impressed by the It-can't-be-done counselors, the standpatters—or for that matter by the brass hats.

When they told him his ideas of taking Rome itself were too ambitious, doomed to disaster, that she was too strong and populous, his reply was: "The thicker the hay, the easier mowed."

The time came when the Roman peace emissaries, having received from Alaric his price for lifting his decimating siege, inquired aghast: "What do you intend to leave us?" Alaric answered: "Your lives."

The day will come when the Japs and the Germans will be shot back to Tokio and Berlin—when Osaka, Nagoya, Kobe, Yokohama, Hamburg, Cologne, Munich, Essen and the rest of the sardine-packed pens of the Axis will be ruins and shambles.

Fair and honorable terms will be that for which they will plead, as a condition of surrender.

Let us gird ourselves to be as clement to the survivors as was Alaric.

MY TURN

Two cyclists pulled up for the night at a hotel.

"Well, I think," said the host, "that you'll have a comfortable night. It's a feather bed."

At 2 o'clock in the morning one of the cyclists roused his companion.

"Change places with me, Dick," he groaned. "It's my turn to lie on the feather."

"ALL IN FAVOR?"

● Everybody votes "AYE" for delicious Jell-O Puddings. To prepare, just add milk to the contents of a Jell-O Pudding package, cook 5 minutes, then cool. Four to six servings of grand dessert are ready in a jiffy. Mighty nourishing and very economical to serve. And a dessert that requires none of your sugar.

If you find your grocer sometimes out of your favorite flavor—try one of the other flavors. If he is out of Jell-O Puddings entirely, it is only for a day or two.

LIFE INSURANCE IS THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

PROTECTION

...for the people

...by the people

IN peace time, peace of mind goes deep. Yet you can often see it in a face. You can usually tell when a man or woman has a sense of security. You can see it in the springy step of a doctor in Vancouver. You can see it in the calm eyes of a farmer on the Prairies. You can feel it in the firm grip of a miner in Sudbury. You can hear it in the unruffled voice of a school teacher in Quebec. You can sense it in the quiet heartiness of a store clerk in Halifax.

Men and women who enjoy the financial security of life insurance are typical Canadians . . . if you can call four million people typical. Some are young, some are middle-aged, some are old. Most of them are wage-earners and people of moderate means. Life insurance came into existence because these people needed protection, and its assets in Canada . . . now over two billion dollars . . . are owned by the people it serves. Each one of you protects the other, and as you protect each other, so you protect yourselves and the nation.

Right now, peace of mind and protection depend on victory. That is why you should work, save and lend to the limit of your ability. Put every dollar you can into War Savings is the advice of your life insurance companies who have invested millions of your premium savings in war loans to buy the tools of victory.

IT IS GOOD CITIZENSHIP TO OWN LIFE INSURANCE

Record Believed Established by Royal Arcanum

The sponsoring of his five sons by E. A. Estlin as members of the juvenile branch of the Royal Arcanum during the recent visit of the supreme regent here was believed to constitute a record never before achieved by any member or council in the United States or Canada since this department of the order was inaugurated, officials said yesterday.

The supreme regent, G. W. Mercer, of New York City, and members of his party visited the Victoria Majestic Council, No. 1513, last Monday and on Tuesday left for Vancouver. From there they planned to go to Seattle and then on to California. Mr. Mercer was accompanied by his wife and Fred Anderson, grand regent; J. J. Murphy, grand secretary, and Fred Peeler, state service manager. These latter officials are of the jurisdiction of Washington, Oregon and British Columbia.

During the convention the Victoria council's drill team conferred the full degree of the order upon Kenneth Walsh, who was also sponsored by Mr. Estlin.

In an address to the members, Mr. Mercer stressed the importance of fraternity and good fellowship as a means of preserving democracy. These concepts, he said, had constituted the main doctrine of the order during its sixty-five years of existence.

WHY WORRY

A man on trial for his life was being examined by a group of alienists. Suddenly one doctor jumped up and shouted at him: "Quick, how many feet has a centipede?" The man came back in a dry voice: "Gad, is that all you have to worry about?"

Passengers Leap To Safety When Ferry Hits Dock

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15 (CP).—Passengers were forced to leap to safety to escape flying glass and debris when a North Vancouver ferry crashed into the loading pier at its Vancouver dock early today.

Piling was wrenched away and the ferry's lower cabin caved in by the force of the crash, but no one was injured.

R. Bromley, secretary of the North Vancouver City and District Property Owners' Association, said the ferry was carrying a double load of passengers because a previous ferry had failed to make a trip.

"Conditions are deplorable," Mr. Bromley said. "In case of a mid-inlet collision loss of life would be terrific."

That Body of Yours

PERSISTENT OR CHRONIC HOARSENESS MAY BE DUE TO CANCER

Notwithstanding the warnings given by throat specialists regarding persistent hoarseness, many individuals neglect to consult a physician until real damage to the throat structure has been done and in some cases actual danger to life is present.

Why is chronic or persistent hoarseness a danger sign?

"Hoarseness is the earliest symptom of cancer of the throat due to its effect upon the vocal cords. Eighty-two per cent of early cases of cancer of the larynx, that is affecting not more than the front two-thirds of one vocal cord, are curable. For this reason any patient with hoarseness is entitled to a careful examination of the throat."

I am quoting Dr. George Tracewell, Okmulgee, Oklahoma, in the journal of the Oklahoma State Medical Association. Dr. Tracewell states that in cases of chronic laryngitis every possible cause should be sought because the cause may be cancer.

It is in the case of chronic hoarseness that physicians do not take the symptom seriously enough and the patient himself is likely to put off consulting a physician until it is too late to operate or the tissues have been extensively damaged by syphilis or tuberculosis. The fact that there are no other symptoms present—pain or cough—may mislead the patient. Hoarseness may be the chief and only symptom of syphilis.

In tuberculosis, however, the throat is not usually the starting point. It is generally conceded that tuberculosis of the larynx nearly always "follows" tuberculosis of the lungs.

However, cancer, syphilis and tuberculosis are not the only causes of hoarseness. There are other causes including goitre, injury, polyps (soft fleshy growths), overuse of voice, swelling of blood vessels, hysteria and others.

In the treatment of hoarseness due to tuberculosis, the treatment given where the disease occurs elsewhere in the body is given, that is rest (of the voice).

In cancer of the throat, operation, X-rays and radium is the treatment.

I have spoken before about the danger of neglecting hoarseness that has persisted for two weeks or longer. As in cancer elsewhere in the body, early treatment cures cancer of the throat.

1 BIRTHS

DICKSON—To Mr. and Mrs. Gordon B. Dickson (nee Helene Hamilton), of Salmon Arm, B.C., at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, October 14, a daughter.

2 DEATHS

FANNING—Passed away at her residence, 857 McClure Street, on Wednesday morning, October 14, Mrs. Agnes Fanning, in her seventy-fourth year, widow of the late William John Fanning. The late Mrs. Fanning was born in England and had been a resident of Victoria for six years, and a former resident of McLean, Alta. She is survived by one brother, Clarence Hazel, of Vancouver, also nieces and nephews.
The remains are resting at the Thomson Funeral Home, from where funeral services will be held on Saturday, morning at 10.30 o'clock. Rev. George Biddle will officiate and interment will be in the family plot in the Royal Oak Burial Park.
(Regina papers please copy.)

BARRETT—There passed away at the family residence, 2328 Howard Street, on Monday, October 12, Walter Garrett, aged eighty years. The late Mr. Garrett was born in England and had been a resident of this city for the last twelve years and had previously resided in Banff before taking up his residence in Victoria. Besides his widow, Elizabeth Faith, he leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, Miss Olive, at home, and one son, Edward, of Edmonton, Alta.; two sisters, Misses Emma and Ellen Garrett, of Milner, B.C.; one brother in England, and three grandchildren.
The remains are resting at McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel, where funeral services will be conducted on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. H. W. Kerley will officiate. Interment will be in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

O'NEILL—There passed away at his residence, 1434 Dallas Road, on October 13, John O'Neill, aged eighty-six years, born in Ireland and a resident of Victoria for thirty years, the late Mr. O'Neill was a highly-respected member of the Masonic order, a member of Victoria Columbia No. 1, A.F. and A.M.; Camosun Chapter, No. 14, G.R.B.C.; Western Gate Preceptory, K.T., and Qiwah Temple Shrine, also a member of the First United Church. Mr. O'Neill was connected with the teaching circles of Greater Victoria for many years, being the first principal of Tolmie School, when opened in 1913, and continued in that position until his retirement in 1931. He is survived by two sons and two daughters, Walter, of Prince Rupert, John, Victoria; Miss Sydney and Miss Margaret, at home; one brother, William, in Ireland; also eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren survive.
Funeral services will be held in the Thomson Funeral Home on Friday afternoon at 2.30 under the auspices of Victoria Columbia No. 1, A.F. and A.M. Rev. J. R. Prizell, of Vancouver, will officiate, and interment will be in the family plot in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

READING—There passed away Thursday morning, in this city, Euphemia Ann Reading, 38 Fallon Street, at the age of ninety years. The late Mrs. Reading was born at Stratford-on-Avon, Warwickshire, England, and had resided in this city for the past thirty-two years. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. Sandy, 38 Fallon Street, and Mrs. J. Crawford, London, England; also three grandsons, Lieut. Carle Sandy, Halifax; William E. Sandy, Fort St. John, and Gerald E. Sandy, Toronto.
Funeral services will be conducted on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the parlors of the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Cremation will take place at the Royal Oak Crematorium.

LOW—Died peacefully at his home, 570 Hill Street, on October 13, 1942, William Harmer Low, in his seventieth year, born in Grenagh, County Cork, Ireland, and had lived here for twelve years. He leaves his sister, Miss Wilhelmina Bond Low, home.
Funeral service in Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Friday at 2 p.m., Rev. Canon E. V. Bird officiating. Cremation at Royal Oak. (No flowers, by request.)

What Today Means

LIBRA

If October 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. until noon, from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a.m., from 6 to 8 p.m. and from 10 p.m. until midnight.

It may prove helpful for you to remember that there always are two sides to each story and that it generally is advisable to listen to both before reaching a conclusion. Busy people should not trust too much to their memories on October 16, for forgetfulness seems destined to be a common fault that will result in many people being inconvenienced greatly. People who demonstrate much undue enthusiasm may find themselves decidedly unpopular, unless they curb this tendency. Married, engaged and lovesick couples must not "employ speech only to conceal their thought," but, instead, it should convey that which is within their hearts.

If you are a woman and October 16 is your birthday, strive to develop an optimistic view of life if you do not wish to experience periods of depression. Religion appears to be the medium through which you will derive a maximum degree of comfort and fortitude, so it deserves serious consideration during these perilous times. As a social welfare worker, political or war worker, actress, singer, writer, trained nurse, instructress, designer, business manager or artist, you may advance your interests much faster than you have thought possible. The love that binds you to the man of your choice is apt to grow stronger with the passage of time.

The child born on October 16 should be taught to share his love impartially with his parents. Any tendency children have to engage in arguments with their elders should be discouraged promptly, or it may become one of their most undesirable habits. If not forced to enter upon

FINANCE - COMMERCE - MARKETS

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was off .5 of a point at 39.4, sharpest reaction since July 23. Transfers totaled 596,370 shares compared with 660,010 Wednesday.

Southern Pacific finished off ¼ after edging into new high ground since 1939 when directors voted a $1 dividend, first in ten years.

American Telephone conceded 2 5-8. The company's third quarter net was slightly under a year ago but covered the current dividend rate.

U.S. Steel lost 1 1-8 as attention of owners turned to possible repercussions on third quarter earnings of the payment of retroactive wage boosts ordered by the War Labor Board in August.

Du Pont was down 3 1-8. Recessions of around a point were suffered by J. L. Case, Standard Oil (N.J.), and Westinghouse. Moderate losers included N.Y. Central, Great Northern, Pennsylvania, Bethlehem, General Motors, Anaconda, U.S. Rubber, and American Can.

TOO MUCH TIME

It happened on the train. A small man, a bad stammerer, and painfully conscious of his disability, leaned forward and tapped the big man opposite on the knee.

"Your b-b-b—" he began, shaking his head and tapping his foot on the floor in an effort to speak.

The big man smiled patronizingly.

"Now, take it slowly," he said.

The small man gulped.

"Yes, b-b-but your b-b-b—"

Again the big man interrupted him.

"No hurry, old chap," he said, winking at the other passengers. "Never mind the other people in the carriage. Take a deep breath and—"

Crash! His words ended in a howl of pain as his bag overbalanced off the rack and struck him squarely on the head.

METAL FRILLS ON LAMPS OUT

Cast Metal Fixtures Are Eliminated—Number of Sockets Reduced

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP).—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has brought down to earth any imaginative ideas of householders who have an eye for elaborate lighting fixtures.

From now on, it was learned today, decorative metal frills are out, lighter steel must be used and there may be no fluorescent fixtures for domestic use.

Special permission will be required for the purchase of replacement fixtures.

Part of the General Prices Board campaign for the conservation of war materials and simplification of design, the order provides that no manufacturer may use any metal, other than lead, silver, iron or steel of twenty-two gauge or lighter, in the manufacture of domestic lighting fixtures.

CAST METAL ELIMINATED

"Allowing a saving of one pound of metal on each of 94,000 wall brackets, and four pounds each on 141,000 ceiling-type fixtures, a rough estimate of 329 tons of metal saved is reached," one official said.

The restrictions do not apply on current-carrying parts of the household equipment, and other subsidiary and essential equipment.

For economy of materials and power, the number of sockets or lampholders in bracket or wall-type fixtures has been restricted to one. As many as three were used in the past.

CEILING FIXTURES

Ceiling fixtures of the "close-up" type such as are used in bedrooms are restricted to two sockets. The pendant type of ceiling fixture is cut down to three sockets. Both these types used as many as four or five sockets in the past.

Indicating the importance of the saving to be made, officials said 235,000 fixtures were produced in Canada last year. If one socket were removed from each of the same number of fixtures during the next year the saving—at the rate of one ounce of brass a socket—would be more than seven tons, sufficient to supply the brass content of more than 1,700 army-tank-radio-receiving sets.

CANADA YEAR BOOK FOR 1942 EMBODIES LATEST INFORMATION

The 1942 edition of the Canada Year Book is now available and copies will be supplied to the public at a low price so long as the supply lasts, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has announced. Persons requiring the Year Book should apply to the King's Printer, Ottawa.

Thoroughly revised throughout, and including in all its chapters the latest information available up to the time of going to press, the volume is a comprehensive study of the social and economic condition of the Dominion of Canada. It is the official statistical annual of the country and contains an up-to-date account of the natural resources of the Dominion and their development, the history of the country, its institutions, its demography, the different branches of production, trade, transportation, finance and education.

New features of the volume include special war reviews, articles on constitution and government, vital statistics, internal trade and labor. The Year Book extends to more than 1,000 pages.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

All officers and executive members were returned to office at the annual meeting of Wards 1 and 3, Saanich Liberal Association, held recently. T. Alexander, president, presided. Routine business was followed by an interesting address given by Norman Whittaker, M.P.P.

WATCH QUEBEC BY-ELECTIONS

Seen as Possible Indicators Of Reception of Appointments

OTTAWA, Oct. 15 (CP).—Federal political circles are looking to the two by-elections to be held in Quebec next month as possible indicators of the reception Quebec electors will give to recent appointments of French-speaking ministers to the Cabinet and of the strength of the newly-formed Bloc Populaire.

The elections may provide a clue as to possibility of healing the breach in the Liberal party which developed last Winter over conscription, but it is not yet certain whether the elections will be fought squarely on that issue.

In Charlevoix-Saguenay, a seat vacated by appointment of Hon. Pierre Casgrain to the bench, Mme. Casgrain, widely known as a feminist leader, has announced her candidacy. Her only prospective opposition so far is an Independent.

MINISTER CANDIDATE

In Montreal-Outremont, vacated by appointment of Deputy Speaker Thomas Vien to the Senate, Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, newly-appointed Minister of National War Services, will probably be a candidate.

Should Maxime Raymond, member for Beauharnois-Laprairie, who broke with the Liberal party last Winter and now is leader of Bloc Populaire, enter candidates in the two constituencies, his movement would get its first test.

Mr. Raymond, it was learned from Quebec members who recently visited the capital, has not yet obtained the support of the members of the House with whom he stood on the conscription issue, in the debates of last session.

After formation of the new movement a meeting of the eleven Liberal members who voted against the plebiscite bill last Winter was called at Quebec.

Only Wilfrid LaCroix, of Quebec-Montmorency, agreed to throw his support to the Bloc Populaire, it was learned. Two others are understood to be possible recruits for the new movement, but the other six are definitely holding aloof.

One of this group, however, informed The Canadian Press that all are ready to sever their connection with the Liberal party, cross the floor of the House of Commons and act independently in opposition should the Government impose either conscription of men for service overseas or conscription of women for service in Canada.

A Scotch farmer had agreed to deliver twenty hens to the local market. Only nineteen, however, were sent, and it was almost evening before the twentieth bird was brought in by the farmer.

"Man," said the butcher, "you're late with this one!"

"Aye," agreed the other, "but, ye see, she didna lay until this afternoon."

LIONS DISCUSS CONCERT PLANS

Plans for the second concert in their Sunday series, on October 25, were discussed at the luncheon meeting of the Lions Club in Spencer's dining-room yesterday. The entertainments, for men and women in the services only, are being held in the Royal Victoria Theatre.

Letters of appreciation for the club's contribution in this direction were read by the secretary, A. H. Cann. He said that the club had received gratifying support in its undertaking to provide Sunday entertainment for men and women in uniform, and expected the series would be continued.

Denis Hagar, organizer for the Vancouver Island Division in the third Victory Loan campaign, addressed the meeting. Stressing the necessity for support of the loan he said that Canadians, entering the fourth year of the war, are facing a job that grows bigger every day.

"War is our biggest and most important business today, a business which costs money," said the speaker in emphasizing the need for backing the loan.

KIMBERLEY, South Africa (CP).—Col. Sir David Harris, South African diamond millionaire, "Grand Old Man of Kimberley," died here at ninety. Former M.P. he started work in the South African mines when he was nineteen with only £19 ($95.50).

Made to Your Measure

In a Choice of 50 Individual Fall Suitings

THIS Fall we're giving up cuffs and a few inches of cloth here and there, but that does not mean that fit, comfort and smart appearance has been sacrificed.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY is your opportunity to select from 50 lengths fine wool, worsted suitings . . . a suit that will be carefully tailored to your individual measurements . . . assuring perfect fit, on well-tailored, solid basic lines that'll be good for many seasons' wear.

THE fabrics are worsted woollens, the kind that can take hard wear, and keep their shapes and good looks exceptionally well. Then, too, there's a splendid choice of shades in Browns . . . Blues and Blue Greys . . . plain or novelty weaves . . . wide or narrow stripes.

IF you need a good-looking suit that'll give you a straight, well-groomed look, with comfort and economy . . . then see these fine suitings today or Saturday and be convinced that they are one of the season's best buys.
